SURETY BOND FOR HALL REFUSED

Hauptmann Trial Jury Near Completion

Liability Premium On State Officer Held Inadequate

Treasurer's Personal Rating High — Companies Say $5,000 Fee Paid in Past Fails to Cover Their Responsibility — Increasing Cost to $50,000 May Be Necessary.

Refusal of surety companies to furnish an official bond of $1,000,000 covering the official responsibility of State Treasurer George E. Hall during the next two years will make it impossible for him to qualify at the present time for his second term beginning Thursday.

In making this announcement Wednesday morning, Treasurer Hall said that he would file his oath of office with the secretary of state and present himself with other state officers for the inauguration ceremonial before the joint session of the legislature Thursday, but that until the situation is cleared up he will have only the status of a holdover officer, serving without bond.

All Refuse.

Several weeks ago, Hall said, he authorized the Harry A. Koch agency of Omaha to arrange for the writing of his bond to run through 1935 and 1936 and select the companies to participate in the risk. He is now informed that the Omaha firm has been unable to find any bonding company in the United States willing to assume any liability under existing conditions.

"It is a very serious situation," Treasurer Hall told newspaper men. "I am assured that the companies give me a high personal rating and that their unwillingness to take the business is due entirely to the fact that the premium is inadequate for the amount of risk involved in the handling of 5 to 6 million dollars in cash and about 14 million dollars of security investments in the custody of the state treasury.

"In other words, the state of Nebraska has been put by the bonding companies on the deferred list and must mark time until proper adjustments can be made by legislative enactment, or otherwise, enabling me to meet their requirements and requalify as state treasurer.

Proportionate Premium.

"Something will have to be done to make the business more attractive to fidelity insurers if the state's cash and investments are

Price Favors State Doing Own Bonding

State Auditor W. B. Price termed the demands of the bonding companies as "exorbitant." "I see no reason for doubling their rates on these bonds," he said. "Their risks are less now than they have been in a long while. Our banks are not only in excellent condition but the federal government is guaranteeing deposits up to $5,000 and the bonding companies are protected to that extent against loss.

"There is not a single reason to anticipate any loss," he went on. "There is no reason to penalize Nebraska for the losses in the other states."

Price said he would advocate that the state go into the bonding business itself and bond its state officers and the county officials also. "I realize that would require a constitutional amendment, but the legislature is here."

The auditor took occasion to bespeak himself on the bonding companies' ideas on burglary and holdup insurance also. "The capitol offices are outfitted with very strong vaults and electric burglar alarms. Insurance would be only an added expense."

fire marshal, and John S. Anderson of Hastings is the new state veterinarian.

Davis, at present a deputy fire marshal, succeeds L. J. Butcher who had held the office for several years. Davis has long been prominent in democratic circles and is a former president of the Nebraska Press association.

Anderson succeeds Dr. H. J. Feistner as state veterinarian and head of the animal husbandry bureau. Cochran withheld any announcement of appointments of tax commissioner, game warden and state sheriff.

BALL TICKETS ON SALE AT HOTELS

Admissions to Inaugural Dance Can Be Obtained Wednesday Night.

Ticket sales for the state-wide inaugural ball to be held Thursday night at the University of Nebraska coliseum will be on sale Wednesday evening at the Lincoln, Cornhusker and Lindell hotels, chamber of commerce officials in charge of the dance announced Wednesday.

Sale of tickets continues also at the secretary of state's office at the capitol and at the chamber of commerce. Six ticket sellers will be on hand at the coliseum.

Cochran Inaugural Ceremony To Begin At 1 P. M. Thursday

Governor-elect Roy L. Cochran, and with him the other state officials elected or re-elected last November, will begin their terms Thursday after being inducted into office at the inaugural ceremonies to be carried out in the presence of the legislative joint session at the house chamber.

The inauguration program will take place at 1 o'clock. Chief Goss of the Nebraska supreme court will administer the oaths of office. Legislative members concurred in preference for the 1 o'clock ceremony expressed by Cochran.

Before this part of the ceremonial is held, Governor Bryan will deliver his parting message to the legislature, with recommendations relating to governmental affairs.

Governor-elect Cochran will then be introduced and sworn in. He will read to the assembled solons his message outlining policies for the coming two years and suggestions for legislation to carry them into effect.

The other state officers will take their formal vows in concert, except Railway Commissioner-elect W. M. Maupin, for whom a different form of oath is prescribed.

Following the inauguration, the various officers will go to their respective departments and receive calls from their friends.

In the evening the inaugural ball will take place at the University of Nebraska coliseum, on conclusion of the traditional reception in the capitol rotunda. Governor and Mrs. Cochran, attended by officers of the Nebraska national guard, will lead the grand march. Proceeds of the ball will go to the state orthopedic hospital for the benefit of its patients.

BRYAN SUGGESTS $615,918 BOOST IN STATE COSTS

Budget Lacks Provision For State Relief Appropriation.

$11,628,085 TAX EXPENSE ASKED

Use of Half Million In Present Accumulation Of Cash Urged.

Total appropriations out of tax revenue recommended by Governor Bryan in his advisory budget submitted to the legislature Wednesday, for maintenance and operating costs of all state departments, institutions, and activities, during the fiscal biennium to start July 1, 1935, are $11,628,085.

This is an increase of $615,918 over the gross amount appropriated by the 1933 legislature for the current biennium, which was $11,012,167. Principal increases allowed by the governor are $434,600 for state institutions under the board of control, $242,920 for the university of Nebraska, and $65,964 for the state normal schools. These are partially offset by reductions that Bryan recommends elsewhere.

Special Funds.

In addition to the tax revenue, the governor's provisional budget carries $21,412,247 of recommended appropriations out of federal aid funds, proceeds of the state gasoline tax, and other special income derived from excise levies, fees, etc., and from cash earnings and miscellaneous receipts of all kinds. These suggested appropriations are set off by themselves in a separate section of the budget. The items included in this section are estimated for the most part.

In his message accompanying the schedules sent to the legislature Governor Bryan calls attention to cash accumulations of $538,882 now in the state treasury representing unspent appropriations from previous bienniums that have lapsed and remain in the general fund but can not be spent without specific authority from the legislature. He advises that this money be formally ap-

POSTAL INCOME IS UP $28,000

1934 Total Is $834,032; December Shows Near $6,000 Increase.

Lincoln postal receipts totalled $834,032 for 1934, $28,000 more than the 1933 total, according to figures released Wednesday by L. H. Watson, assistant postmaster.

The year's receipts, however, were $24,000 short of the all-time record set in 1930. December receipts were $85,725 as against $79,906 a year ago and were the cause of the smiles of satisfaction of the post office officials. "It is a very nice increase," Watson said, "and of course it is due to the heavier Christmas business this year. The biggest December's business the post office has recorded was in 1929 when receipts reached a high of $101,641.

In the money order department an increase in the number and amount of orders issued in December was shown but the number paid decreased from last year. "It shows that people are using the banks more as a medium of exchange," Watson said.

Postal savings however, showed a sharp increase over 1933, of about $230,000. Watson said. Following is the table of comparison:

Money Orders.	1933	1934
December
Number issued	8,304	8,226
Amount issued	$75,192	$86,645

TWO ARE KILLED AND 100 INJURED IN SAAR STRIFE

Commissioner Tries to Suppress News of Violence in Region.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin territory, Jan. 2—(AP)—Two persons were killed and at least 100 injured in New Year's day political strife in the Saar, it was learned today.

Guns, pitchforks, hammers and iron rods were used in clashes throughout the territory between nazis and their adversaries.

Women were brought into the violent part of the struggle preliminary to the January 13 plebiscite last night, when nine shots were poured into the house of a leader of a nazi women's organization in Budweiler. No one was injured.

Although officials of the international police force announced "everything is quiet," it was learned that fierce battles had been fought in at least five places in the territory. Reports indicated 50 persons had been arrested but police would not confirm them.

Geoffrey G. Knox, Saar commissioner, threatened to dismiss officials who let any news of violence leak out.

Two dead were picked up on highways yesterday. One had been stabbed near Saarlouis and the other shot near Puettlingen.

In a street battle at Emdorf 23 nazis and communists were injured as shots were exchanged, while three were hurt in a similar clash at Eberharn.

Nazis have delivered the ultimatum that all who expect clemency "after the foreign yoke is removed" must join the German front, nazi organization, by January 10.

DIFFERENCES OF F.D.R., KINGFISH FLARE UP AGAIN

President Makes Known Moratorium Law Is Not Satisfactory.

LONG PROMISES REPLY IN SENATE

PWA Jobs Held Up Until Louisiana Policy Clarified.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—The coolness between the White House and Senator Huey P. Long plummeted to a new low of frigidity today after President Roosevelt had served indirect notice that the Louisiana dictatorship probably will have to repeal or clarify some of its laws if it wants PWA money.

The "Kingfish," in return, indicated that there would be fireworks on the floor of the senate next week.

Indications that public works administration loans might be withheld until Louisiana's debt moratorium law was clarified were seen in a letter President Roosevelt wrote Governor O. K. Allen. He suggested a "clear and unequivocal enunciation of the policy of the legislature in respect of enactments for the postponement of the payment of public indebtedness."

The PWA has held up payments on some 60 Lousiana projects following the enactment in November of a law providing for a two-year moratorium on public and private debts over eight dollars except those owed cities, the state or federal government.

In Baton Rouge, Governor Allen said he knew nothing about a letter from the president.

U. S. AGENTS DENY MULLOY CHARGE

Defendant In Kansas City Trial Claims He Was Intimidated.

PROSECUTION RESTS.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2—(AP)—In a surprise move, the government rested its case against seven defendants charged with conspiracy in the Union station slaying case at 1:50 o'clock today.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2—(AP)—Two federal agents—one an important witness in the Lindbergh kidnaping case — vehemently denied today they had used "third degree" methods to obtain an oral statement from Frank B. (Fritz) Mulloy, one of the seven defendants in the Union station massacre conspiracy case.

The jury was taken out of the courtroom while Mulloy made his assertion that Agent Leon G. Turrou, an investigator in the Lindbergh case, had cursed him and threatened to "throw me in jail and let me rot if I didn't make a statement." He said he was given a written statement but refused to sign it except in the presence of his lawyer.

The charge of intimidation was denied by Turrou and by Walter F. Trainor, another agent, who said Mulloy made a verbal statement to Turrou in his presence concerning a telephone conversation June 16, 1933, in which Lonis "Doc" Stacci, Chicago night club operator and another of the defendants, asked Mulloy to get in touch with the late Verne C. Miller.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—Elevation of Rep. Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee to the speakership was assured today when house democrats nominated him for the position. The election tomorrow will be a formality.

His unanimous nomination to succeed the late Henry T. Rainey of Illinois came as members of the senate and house met in caucus to select party leaders for the session starting tomorrow. Legislative issues were subordinated in the meantime.

Meanwhile, the senate campaign funds committee decided to make no further investigation of ex-

Three Fewer Car Accident Deaths In Lincoln, 1934

Fatal automobile accidents in the city limits decreased from 12 in 1933 to nine for the last twelve months, Police Capt. Paul Shively said Wednesday. Fatalities within Lancaster county limits, however, increased from a total of 21 in 1933, to 28 in 1934. Captain Shively attributed part of the decrease, within the city limits to closer supervision of traffic regulation.

SOLONS PUSHING ON TO REGULAR ROUTINE TASKS

Complete Canvass, Hear Bryan Message, Await Inauguration.

Moving forward into the regular routine, the fiftieth session of the Nebraska legislature Wednesday completed formalities incidental to organization, heard the budget message of Charles W. Bryan, retiring governor, and cleared the decks for the inauguration Thursday of Governor-elect Roy Cochran and other state officers.

H. B. Porterfield, secretary to Governor Bryan, delivered the chief executive's budget message before a joint session of the senate and house assembled in the house chamber shortly after 11 o'clock.

A few minutes before, the joint session canvassed the vote in the November 6 general election. The solons dispensed with reading the certified list of successful candidates prepared by Secretary of State Harry Swanson, and accepted it as presented by him after he had been escorted to the house chamber by a special committee.

Secretary Porterfield was escorted to the house chamber by a special committee comprised of Senators Pedersen and Kaspar and Representatives Haycock, Proskocil and Sallander.

To escort Secretary of State Swanson to the joint session was sent a committee comprised of Senators Bullard and Jelen and Representatives Wachtler, Claussen and Dunn.

ROOSEVELT'S SON UNHURT IN CRASH

Released For Further Hearing; Driver of Other Car Bruised.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2—(AP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, jr., son of the president, was in an automobile crash New Year's morning at nearby Wayne, but escaped injury, it was learned today. The driver of the other car, Edward Newman, 24, of Radnor, was cut and bruised in the crash.

Arraigned last night before justice of the Peace Howard C. Harbison at Wayne, the president's son was released on his own recognizance for further hearing there on January 15.

He explained at the hearing that he had been blinded by the snow and tried to stop when he saw Newman's car, parked near a railroad station. He said his own car skidded when he tried to stop.

The accident occurred about 1 a. m. yesterday. Young Roosevelt, who is a sophomore at Harvard, has been the holiday guest of J. Drexel Paul, in suburban Radnor, and was on his way to a dance in a Philadelphia hotel, he said.

It was not made known whether anyone was in the car with him at the time.

Roosevelt was charged with assault and battery by automobile.

Driver Who Figured In Crash Given 30 Days

Roy Oldfield, 19, of Tecumseh who was charged with driving while intoxicated after a car driven by him collided with another machine at Fourteenth and Van Dorn, December 23, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and ordered not to drive a car for a year. When first arraigned, Oldfield pleaded not guilty, but changed his plea after going over evidence in the case collected by the accident investigation squad.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2—(AP)—Selection of a complete panel before the end of the day to try Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnaping and murder of Baby Lindbergh appeared probable shortly after the opening of the first afternoon session of the trial. Nine jurors had been sworn.

Four jurymen, two women and two men, were selected during the opening session in the morning. Five more were found acceptable to both the state and the defense in the first hour of the afternoon's proceedings.

The first 25 veniremen were questioned with dispatch, with far more speed than any of the attorneys had hoped.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2—Sitting a few feet from the father of the baby he is accused of murdering, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, stolid, morose carpenter, began the ordeal of trial for his life today, and heard accepted jurors say they had no prejudices against capital punishment.

He stared straight ahead through the questioning of veniremen, paying little heed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh seated nearby at the prosecution table. Mrs. Lindbergh, the bereaved mother, was not present.

Another woman, almost lost in the back of the room among a jamming crowd, listened with intense interest. She was Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the Bronx carpenter and mother of his own infant son, Mannfried.

Blasting Powder and Attached Fuse Found In Car of Coal Here

A package of what was thought to be black blasting powder, found embedded in a chunk of coal while a car at the Hoppe Lumber Co., Ninth and S streets, was being unloaded, was investigated by police Wednesday noon. A fuse was attached to the package, first thought to be dynamite, but H. H. Schwartzkopf, yard man, said the explosive had probably been accidentally snipped from the mine. Henry and Phillip Kolb discovered the powder.

OMAHA, Jan. 2—(AP)—A. B. Olson of Lincoln Wednesday was appointed manager of agencies for the Guarantee Mutual Life company of Omaha, the company announced. He succeeds F. A. Hicks, who resigned November 1 to become manager of the company's Southern California branch at Los Angeles.

Mr. Olson has held a similar position with the Bankers Life Insurance company of Nebraska at Lincoln for eight years. Prior to that he was an Omaha resident, and served as president of the Omaha Life Underwriters association.

250 SNOWBOUND PERSONS FREED

Path Cleared for Four-Mile Marooned Line of Motor Vehicles.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 2—(AP)—Snowplows freed about 250 persons in a four-mile line of busses, trucks and automobiles from the snowdrifts that mounted to 10 to 12-foot heights east of here today. In the line were four busses. One, with 60 passengers aboard, had been stalled since 11 o'clock last night.

The worst blizzard in years roared down the valley last night, closing the highway. A high wind continued today, piling drifts higher, but the sky was clear. The temperature was about 10 degrees above zero.

TRUCK DRIVER'S LEG IS BROKEN

Alex Schwabauer Hurt Cranking Machine Still In Gear.

Caught between his runaway truck and a heavy wooden gate post at the J. P. Scheidt Lumber company, Fifth and Washington streets, Alex Schwabauer, 57, 1025 North Eighth street, suffered fractures of both bones in his right leg shortly before noon Wednesday. The leg was severely bruised, Dr. Clarence Emerson said.

Schwabauer, a driver for the Scheidt company, had filled the radiator of his truck at a water tap near the company office and cranked the motor. The truck was in gear when the engine started, and the machine started diagonally southwest across Washington street.

Jumping to the running board at the right of the cab, Schwabauer apparently was attempting to reach the ignition switch when the truck crashed into the gate post at the lumber yard entrance, police said.

Schwabauer had crawled away from the truck when J. P. Scheidt, attracted by the former's cries, ran from the company office. The injured man was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital where he was attended by Dr. Emerson.

As Rogers Sees It

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 2 — Well, it looks like none of the schemes worked, and we are going right on ahead just letting the New Year come. I am back from the football game. I imagine it will be in the papers anyhow about who won. I am too busy blathering after the game to do much reporting.

It's real chamber of commerce weather, and those old Arkansas boys that played under the name of Alabama and those Pennsylvania ones playing under the nom de plume of Stanford put up a great game. Anxious to hear about the team that Huey Long imported to beat Tulane.

NEW DEAL PLANS EXPECTED TO BE DIVULGED FRIDAY

Eve of Congress Session Finds Program Cloaked In Deep Silence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2— (AP) —Amid silence deeper than any in recent years, the democratic high command worked today on New Deal strategy for the momentous 74th congress opening tomorrow.

As President Roosevelt labored on his plans, no word went out about details of his recommendations for relief, public works, social security, the budget or any of the other major issues with which the congress will wrestle.

After two working days in which congress will go through the opening formalities and hear the president deliver his message on the state of the nation—expected to be general rather than detailed—legislative leaders are expected to be called to the White House Friday night. There, it is believed, the scope of the 1935 New Deal plans will be discussed in detail.

Two Trouble-Makers.

Next week the congress will go to work, with two old-time trouble-makers, the bonus and the World court, awaiting it right at the start.

On Capitol hill today, there was no legislator who professed concrete knowledge of the president's plans. Awaiting his opening message, set for Friday, and the budget message on Monday, each party called organization meetings for today.

The work of organizing was not without its potential fireworks. The 322 house democrats had to choose a floor leader from among eight candidates, all promising to stay in the fight till the end. The speakership, however, was a foregone conclusion, with Rep. Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee slated to be nominated today and elected tomorrow.

Re-naming Robinson.

Other meetings today were mostly formalities. Senate democrats agreed to re-name Senator Robinson of Arkansas as their leader; senate republicans were behind Senator McNary of Oregon for that job in their party. The 102 house republicans were expected to re-nominate representative Bertrand H Snell of New York as their floor leader.

After house democrats chose their leader, another contested issue was in store. Democratic leaders, seeking to protect the administration program from any revolt, put on a broad campaign for a change in rules so that 218 members instead of 145 would have to sign a petition to force a vote on a bill which lacked administration approval.

Hauptmann Shaken As Trial Opens

Accused Man Appears Nervous For First Time Since Arrest.

FLEMINGTON, N. J, Jan. 2—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann appeared shaken today, on the start of his trial, for the first time since his arrest three and one-half months ago.

The stolid carpenter, moved by the events of the day, presented nevertheless the same enigma of old, sticking to his denial of any part in the Lindbergh kidnap-killing and his story that a now-dead friend gave him the Lindbergh ransom money.

Attired in the same double-breasted grey suit, blue shirt and tie he wore when he was rushed here from New York 11 weeks ago, he was to watch his attorneys joust with the prosecution in drawing a jury.

Indifferent to manacles and guards, he presented the same inscrutable countenance, sharpened and paled by his confinement, his days and nights of silence.

In the last few hours before the trial, however, guards said he was nervous, pacing back and forth in the No. 1 cell of the Hunterdon county jail and tossing on his cot.

Sports Winners Crowned at Y.M.C.A. Hobby Show

Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Y. M. C. A. found the interest of the audience attending the twenty-second annual hobby show and fifty-fourth anniversary program chiefly centered in the athletic activities, when "kings" of the various sports were crowned.

Don Lemley was king of the keglers and Bob Fralic and Charles Mueller won in the senior and junior table tennis. Wrestling titles were won by Gail Anderson Nick Rubino and Henry Lerner. William Norris and Warren Dittrick fought to a draw in a three round boxing match weighing in at 80 and 87 pounds respectively.

The Wolf cubs beat the Pearson team 15-12 in the finals of the basketball competition and the Garland girls won from the Lincoln Cardinals, 22-11.

Certificates were granted the winners in the sports and hobby show competition during the evening program which wound up with a roller skating party.

Temperature of 48 On New Year's Day

Lincoln began the new year with the warmest temperature since November 24, according to the weather bureau, when the mercury climbed to a high of 48 degrees at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. It fell during the night but only to a low of 32 degrees at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. No snow was reported from anywhere in the state and the sky was clear across the whole state.

Today

We Lose Oxygen.
Money Flows West.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Champagne, even tightly corked eventually loses the gas that creates the desired bubbles. So according to Professor H. N. Russell, of Princeton university, a deep scientist, our atmosphere is slowly losing the oxygen that makes human life possible. It leaks away, in some fashion, through the "cork" of "imponderable ether" that seals tightly the little layer of breathing gas that surrounds our planet.

Long after our atmosphere became unbreathable, through lack of oxygen, human beings might continue to live here in small numbers, breathing electrolytic oxygen. Air pilots now breathe oxygen artificially provided when they rise toward the stratosphere. But, you need not worry for yourself, or your grandchild, because "the oxygen dead line will not be reached for another thousand million years." Even then, science might extract sufficient oxygen from rocks that are full of it.

On New Year's day, "The Times of London," called "The Thunderer," although it has occasionally whispered feebly, celebrated its hundred and fiftieth birthday. It appeared in London coffee houses, a little four-page sheet, with no signs of greatness then.

But within fifty years, the editor of the Times was called "the most powerful man in the country" by the British lord chancellor.

Once owned by Lord Northcliffe, the Times is now the property of Lord Astor, one of whose American ancestors when the Times started, was accumulating New York real estate, that made it possible for his descendant to become owner of the Times.

Farmers, newspapers devoted to the farmers' interest, big bankers of the east, are interested in the fact that the money tide that for so long flowed from producers in the west to accumulators in the east, is now flowing in the other direction.

The money tide goes out toward the farms of wheat raisers and stock, in the west and middle west and to the cotton farmers in the south. It is as though the great lakes had been tilted upward at the eastern end, and the waters sent rushing towards the Rocky mountains.

The tide will not flow long in that western direction, probably. Men that have the mortgages and collect the interest, accumulate the money, in the long run

WORK FURNISHED TO 18,600 MEN ON STATE ROADS

Maintenance Cost Kept Down Last 2 Years, Lobdell States.

With a monthly average of 18,600 men given employment directly or indirectly during the past year by highway work, as estimated by Acting State Engineer A. T. Lobdell in his biennial report to Gov C W. Bryan, highway work, carried on principally with the use of federal funds, has played an important part in re-employment program in Nebraska.

Lobdell estimated that for every man employed directly on highway work, 1 4 other men were provided with jobs indirectly.

Reviewing the department's participation in the CWA and FERA relief programs, Lobdell reported that 16 8 per cent of the $5,538,869 of federal CWA appropriation in Nebraska in 1933-34 was spent on state highway CWA projects. Since the advent of the FERA, following suspension of CWA, Lobdell said, the average number of persons employed on state highway projects under FERA has been about 1,000 per month.

The report said that during the two-year period covered, January 1, 1933 to October 31, 1934, 165 miles of paving were laid; 249 miles of mat surfacing; 696 miles of gravel; 470 miles of second course gravel; 502 miles of grading; 215 miles of regrading, including grading for pavement, 230 bridges were built; three viaducts over railroads; three railroad subways and one highway grade separation.

Maintenance costs have been kept to a low figure during the two-year period, Lobdell said, as a result of reduced patrol forces and use of FERA and CWA labor, but it is expected that maintenance costs will be "considerably higher" in 1935.

Because of the greatly increased work of the division of tests, the report points out the need of more adequate quarters for this activity. This work is carried on through the university, which recommends construction of a building suitable for highway testing laboratory and the applied mechanics department of the university.

New Year's Death Toll Exceeds 100

Temperatures Moderating In Midwest; Colder In Parts of East.

(By the Associated Press)

More than 100 deaths were attributed to the observance of New Year's and the cold wave that swept across the northern half of the nation from the Rockies to New England.

Automobile accidents alone accounted for more than 60 of the fatalities, while fires, gunplay and other mishaps swelled the total to at least 115.

Among the dead was the 3-month-old daughter of a Waukesha, Wis, couple, who was suffocated the coroner said, when her mother left the child swathed in blankets in a parked car during a new year's celebration.

At least 11 of the deaths were due to fires. When smoke from an elevator shaft seeped into the room of a Buffalo, N. Y., hotel Robert Patton, went to the ledge outside a window and toppled six floors to his death. He had apparently attempted to leap to an adjoining ledge.

Meanwhile Mother Nature was mixing a hodgepodge of the elements Temperatures were moderating in the central west, while the cold snap hung on in northern states along the Atlantic seaboard, with the weather man predicting temperatures would sag still lower in parts of the east.

Did you ever notice . . in a roomful of people . . the difference between one cigarette and another . . and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette . . . the kind of tobaccos they are made of . . . the way the tobaccos are blended . . . the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things.

Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right.

But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos . . . tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas French has learned a good deal about the mysterious disappearance of a valuable formula belonging to Molly O'Brien, from Sir William Avon. Nick, with Jerry Mordaunt and Molly, plans to visit a deserted factory where John Osborne, who first stole the formula, manufactured a piece of the metal it describes. They will go on Jerry's little cutter. While they are discussing the matter Jerry catches sight of a waiter lurking about the door, and accuses him of spying.

Minister's Son Invents Invisible Ear Drum

The Invisible Ear Drum invented by A. O. Leonard, a son of the late Rev. A. B. Leonard, D. D., for many years secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, for his own relief from extreme deafness and head noises, has so greatly improved his hearing that he can join in any ordinary conversation, go to the theatre and hear without difficulty. Inexpensive and has proven a blessing to many people. Write for booklet to A. O. Leonard, Inc., Suite 868, 70 Fifth avenue, New York City.—Advertisement.

Chapter 25.
JIMMY FOX.

"Why should I answer your question?" the waiter demanded. "I have done nothing wrong. It is you who have struck and assaulted me. If you do not let me go at once, I shall speak to the manager."

"You'll speak to the manager, all right," said Jerry. "I'll see to that." He pointed to the door. "Get out," he rasped. "Get out quick, before I break your neck!"

For a rash instant Kilner seemed inclined to continue the discussion. His lips opened, and then, just as he was about to speak, something in Jerry's face apparently checked the impulse, and with a furtive glance at all three of us, he sidled hastily from the room.

I strolled after him and locked the door.

"Quite an exciting little episode!" I observed as I came back. "Just shows how careful one ought to be."

Jerry shook his head. "Avon was right," he growled. "We are mutts, and we deserve to be kicked—all the lot of us."

"What do you mean?" asked Molly. "Do you think he's one of Orloff's people?"

"Not a doubt of it. An ordinary hotel waiter would never have the nerve to do a thing of that sort." He took a couple of paces towards the window, and then wheeled round. "Some Russian who's probably posing as a refugee. The whole of Europe stinks with them."

"I wish we knew how much he'd overheard," I remarked regretfully. "If he was listening the whole time . . ."

"I don't think he was," broke in Jerry. "I believe he went off for a bit and then sneaked back. Anyhow, I saw the door move; that's what attracted my attention."

"Well, whatever the damage is, it's done now," I pointed out. "Seems to me our best plan is to keep quiet. Molly's going to be here for another couple of days, and if we complain to the manager it will probably get all around the hotel. We don't want to have everybody talking and gossiping about her."

"There's something in that," admitted Jerry. "All the same, I'd like to know who this skunk is, and where they got him from."

"I can probably find out," I said with a sudden inspiration. "You remember that kid I spoke to on my way up?"

He nodded.

"He's a sort of protege of mine. Used to attend a drawing-class in Battersea. I've promised to look over some work of his when I go down, and I'll ask him if he can ferret out anything about our pal's record."

"He'll tell all the other page-boys."

"Not he," I retorted. "Jimmy's a bright lad, and if I'm not mistaken he's by way of being rather attached to me. We can trust him absolutely."

"Right you are," said Jerry. "You get ahead with it. Molly and I will go back to the flat, and you can join us there. Then we'll take George for a walk and have tea in the Park."

"I don't think I shall ever want to eat again," protested Molly. "You gave me such a huge lunch."

"You must have tea," said Jerry firmly. "I've booked a table at Ciro's tonight, and one can't dance on an empty tummy."

We waited for a minute while Molly powdered her nose and put on a hat, and then, making our way to the end of the corridor, walked down the broad deserted staircase. As we arrived at the bottom I saw Jimmy on the opposite side of the lounge. I gave him an encouraging nod, and leaving the others to make their exit, walked over to an untenanted corner.

He had evidently thought out his preparations, for, disappearing promptly through an adjoining doorway, he emerged a moment later carrying a neatly tied brown paper parcel.

"These are them, sir," he whispered, coming across to where I was waiting. "They ain't up to much—just a few bits I done at odd times. It won't be 'alf kind if you'll 'ave a look through them."

"I'll take them home with me," I said, "and I'll let you know what I think about them tomorrow . . . Look here, Jimmy," I added. "You can keep a quiet tongue in your head, can't you?"

He nodded.

"I want you to help me," I went on. "There's a waiter here who calls himself Kilner—Jacob Kilner. A little while ago, when I was upstairs with that lady and gentleman who have just gone out, we found him listetning outside the door. As it happens we were talking about something very private. I'm not going to make a fuss, or anything of that sort, but if it's possible I'd like to find out who he is and where they got him from."

His eyes brightened. "I can do that for you, sir," he said eagerly. "Some of the chaps here are sure to know."

"I'll be most grateful if you will, Jimmy," I said, "but you must be precious careful how you set to work. I don't want Kilner to guess that I'm making inquiries about him."

"I won't give it away, sir. You can trust me, honest." He hesitated, and then flushed. "Why, I'd—I'd do anything to help you, sir," he stammered.

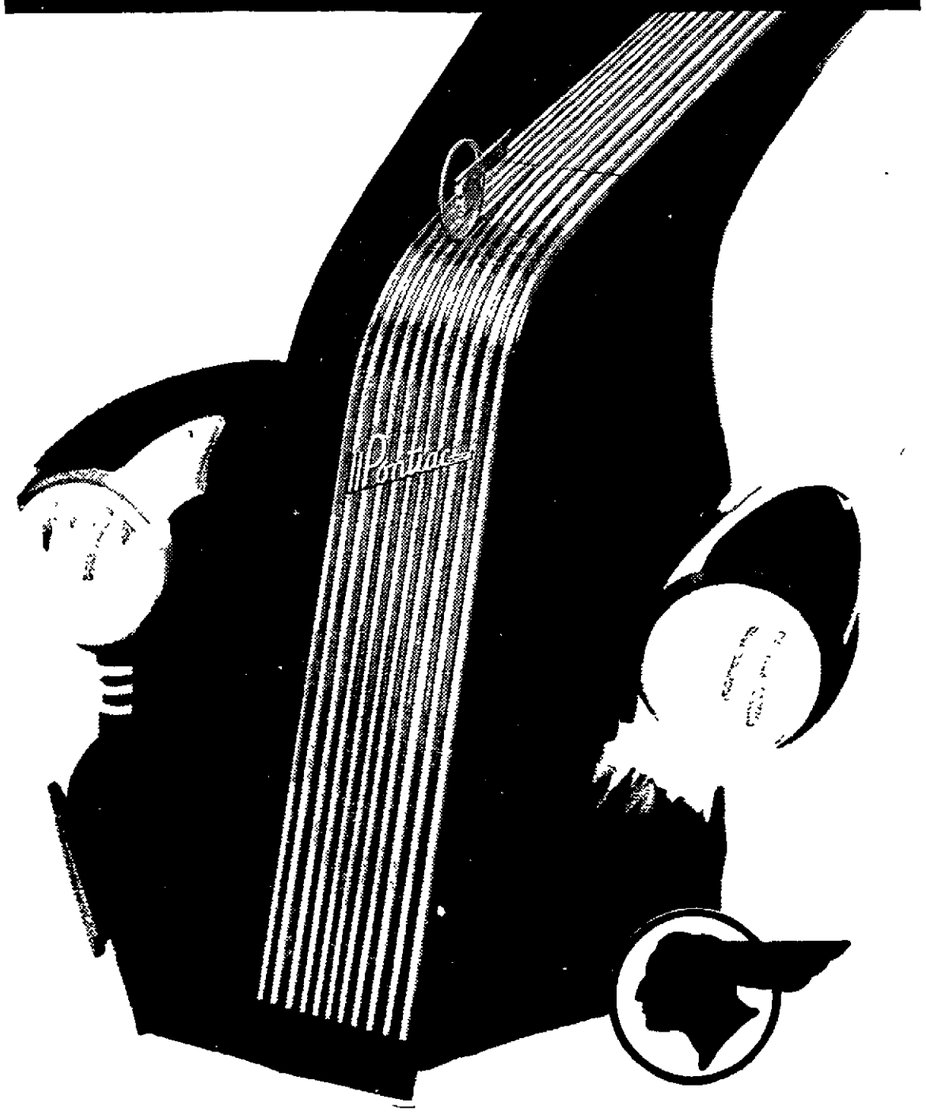

The statement was so obviously sincere that a fresh idea suddenly struck me.

"Well, there's another way in which you might be useful, Jimmy," I said. "That young lady I was talking about, who is sleeping in Number eighty-six, is a rather particular friend of mine. Her name's Miss O'Brien. Quite by accident she's got mixed up with a rotten crowd of foreigners, who are trying to frighten her and cheat her. Now I don't suppose that anyone will interfere with her here, but all the same, these people are an ugly lot, and I'd feel happier if I knew that there was somebody in the hotel who would let me know at once in case anything went wrong. It would only be a question of ringing me up on the phone."

NEW TAX THREAT IN BONUS ISSUE

Administration to Ask Additional Revenue If Bill Passes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(AP)—A threat of new taxes was the administration's answer today to proponents of immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Acknowledging that a cash bonus would pass the house "because there is no opposition to it," Representative Byrns, democrat of Tennessee, speaker-to-be, declared that if it was finally enacted the administration would insist on some additional taxation to meet the estimated two billion dollar expenditure.

At the same time, a leading democratic senator who declined to permit use of his name predicted also that such a measure, expected to be introduced and acted upon early in the congressional session opening tomorrow, would receive senate approval.

Both were in doubt, however, as to whether the proposal would pass congress finally over a presidential veto, which now is considered certain.

penditures in New Mexico, or any other state and to wind up its work with a report to the senate immediately.

The committee reached its decision on the New Mexico case shortly after Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, arrived in the capital by plane with his credentials which had been held up by court proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—Issues soon to embroil congress again in conflict were subordinated today to the choice of party leaders for the session opening tomorrow.

While President Roosevelt still kept to himself the major budgetary and relief policies he intends to advocate personally to the legislators Friday, democratic ranks in the house united in caucus to elevate Representative Byrns of Tennessee to the speakership.

Senate democrats banded behind Robinson of Arkansas to remain party leader there. The house party caucus was preceded by a rush toward Bankhead of Alabama for the leadership on that side.

Formal election of speaker will be tomorrow.

McNary of Oregon was not being challenged for republican leadership in the senate. Snell of New York was opposed by a lone vote to head the house republicans through the 74th congress.

From the white house, mean while, came word of a meeting between the president and his party steersmen to be held Friday night for discussion of their legislative strategy.

HAUPTMANN SITS NEAR LINDBERGH

men had been questioned, four accepted and sworn.

The questioning and selecting went forward with unexpected speed. It began almost immediately after Justice Thomas W. Trenchard opened his court at 10:09 a. m. in the most important and dramatical trial of recent years.

Machinist Will Be Foreman.

A machinist will be foreman of the jury. He is Charles Walton, sr. The others accepted, sworn and placed immediately under guard were Mrs. Rosie Pill, 58-year-old widow and mother of two grown sons, Mrs. Verna Snyder, a housewife, and Charles F. Snyder, a farmer of the Sourland country.

"Criminal File No. 2310" was a moot point in the questioning of the prospective jurors. This pamphlet, satirizing the Lindbergh case and thinly veiling the names and circumstances, was widely distributed in Hunterdon county. Most of the veniremen acknowledged they had read the piece, but none would say that it had anything to do with the forming of an opinion, if he had formed one.

The selected jurors were forbidden to talk to anyone. To their guards Justice Trenchard said:

"See that they read nothing of the case and hear no radio broadcasts."

Boom Town Scene.

The opening of the trial today presented boom-town scenes as 700 reporters, wire men and others descended upon the busily engaged, but calm 2,700 inhabitants of the village.

Seventy of the townfolk were in a line pressed against the court door before the opening. Many of them were disappointed, for they could not be jammed into the tiny space allotted for the trial. Some said "we won't pay our taxes."

Colonel Lindbergh watched the prospective jurors with deep interest, noted each of them as they reacted to state or defense questions. At all times his features were calm. Now and again he cupped his chin in his hands. He was not observed in any studied glances toward Hauptmann whose chair was less than four yards away and against the same courtroom rail.

Hauptmann was heavily guarded when brought into the courtroom, but no manacles bound his hands. He was dressed in a neat gray suit. So was Colonel Lindbergh, who strode in a few minutes later and passed directly in front of the prisoner.

Stares Straight Ahead.

Through the examination of the veniremen Hauptmann sat with folded hands at the defense table. Mostly, he stared straight ahead in the direction of the judge on the bench. Sometimes he directed a sharp glance to the right or left to take in the spectacle of the jammed court.

Justice Trenchard, grey-haired and commanding in presence, made brisk, unhesitant rulings. He quickly put down any inclination on the part of the crowd to laugh or audibly demonstrate.

When jurors became confused by involved or lengthy questions the judge broke in with direct, curt inquiries that cleared the matter quickly.

No haphazard challenges for cause were countenanced by him, and unless the cause was extreme both sides had to accept or exercise their preciously few peremptory challenges—12 for the state, 20 for the defense.

Rapid Progress.

The state used two of its peremptory challenges in the morning session. The defense used six. Both sides had expected the impanelling of a jury to require the remainder of the week. The progress made today caused them to revise their estimates and it was believed testimony would begin before the weekend.

The only time Mrs. Hauptmann made herself in the least conspicious was when she tried vainly for five minutes to catch the eye of her husband. A member of the defense staff saw her. He pointed out the location to Hauptmann. He looked. Mrs. Hauptman waved.

Hauptmann bolted out of his chair as the luncheon recess was announced. He strode so rapidly toward the door leading back to jail that he almost outdistanced his guards. The latter were forced to shove spectators aside roughly to get up to him. Pea soup, fried potatoes, onions, rye bread, coffee —the regular jail fare—waited in his cell.

Court Convenes.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2—(AP)—The state of New Jersey today moved for trial the indictment charging B. R. Hauptmann with the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., infant son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Court convened at 10:09.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the prisoner, sat quietly, practically unobserved in the rear of the packed room.

Superior Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard was alone on the bench. Hauptmann was brought into the room a minute after Trenchard sat down.

Colonel Lindbergh entered the room a minute after court convened. There was a slight smile on his boyish face as he strode across the room to the prosecution table. He wore a grey suit, no vest and a colored tie.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the state police who directed the two and a half year manhunt which ended with Hauptmann's arrest, sat beside the flying colonel. The court was jammed.

The state attorneys were the first to appear. County Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Special Assistant Attorney General George K. Large, Assistant Attorney General Joseph Lanigan and others of the state staff filed in shortly before 10 a. m.

Associate Defense Counsel C. Lloyd Fisher was the next to put in an appearance.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, jaunty and dapper, and big broad Edward Reilly, the defense chief, entered court almost together.

From where he sat Colonel Lindbergh could not see the man accused of the abduction and killing of his first born son. Between the two chief figures in the trial sat members of the defense staff.

Hauptmann his face set, stared fixedly into space.

If Colonel Lindbergh saw the stolid Bronx alien when he was led manacled into the court, he gave no sign. Neither did the German defendant show any indication he had seen Lindbergh.

Justice Trenchard directed the empaneling of the jury to proceed.

First talesman called was Lula B. Johnson, a housewife, of Delaware, a bespectacled, middle-aged woman with graying hair. In response to questions she said she was 55 and married.

She told the court she had formed an opinion about the case and was opposed to capital punishment.

When she said she was against capital punishment, Prosecutor Hauck moved that she be dismissed for cause.

Justice Trenchard, in a kindly voice, questioned her on her views on capital punishment.

Hauck finally challenged Mrs. Johnson and she was excused.

A. R. Heckman, retired business man from Lebanon township, was the next venireman sworn. He said he was married and had 5 children.

Fisher asked him if he had received the pamphlet, written by a Chicago woman, satirizing the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation.

Heckman said he had not read it and had formed no opinion of Hauptmann's guilt or innocence. He had received the pamphlet.

Fisher questioned him about the writings of a New York daily paper columnist (Walter Winchell). Heckman said he didn't read the column, that he heard him on the radio but "wouldn't let a man like that influence me."

There was a roar of laughter. Winchell was in court as a reporter.

The defense then made a peremptory challenge and Heckman stepped down from the stand.

John P. Larason, retired, of West Amwell, was called. He said he had "partly" formed an opinion in the case, but added he did not think this would prevent him from giving a fair verdict.

Justice Trenchard excused Larason when it developed he had presented a certificate attesting to the fact that his wife's health had broken and her physical condition made it dangerous for her to live alone.

Charles Walton, sr., a machinist of High Bridge, was next called. He is a youngish gray-haired man, father of several children.

He was accepted after Fisher asked if the fact that Hauptmann "was surrounded by state troopers" would prejudice him.

Wilentz objected to the question. Trenchard said: "There seems to be no justification for that question."

Walton stated he was not opposed to capital punishment and both sides expressed themselves as content with him. He was then sworn as the foreman of the Hauptmann jury and took his place in the box.

Albert Trimmer white-haired Frenchtown merchant was called. He said in answer to questions by Hauck he was married and had no prejudices toward capital punishment, and could bring in a fair verdict. He told Fisher he had read of the case and had listened to radio broadcasts of the developments. The defense challenged him.

SOLONS PUSHING ON TO REGULAR ROUTINE TASKS

first joint session of the fiftieth session.

The senate met for only 30 minutes Wednesday morning during which three new bills were introduced and a resolution of regret over the death of Former Senator Frank McCarter was adopted. Adjournment for the day was taken until 10 a. m. Tuesday.

All three of the new bills were introduced by Senator Rolla C. Van Kirk of Lincoln.

Creation of a state police force of not more than 100 nor fewer than 50 men is provided in one of Van Kirk's bill, which was filed with the senate's secretary, Hugo F. Srb, as Senate File 4.

Van Kirk's two other measures deal with changing the rules of the road concerning overtaking vehicles and turning from the direct line of traffic; and with changing the expiration date of automobile licenses to February 1 in Lancaster and Douglas counties as is now the case in all other counties.

Bullard's Bill Read.

Senator W. C. Bullard's bill to force radio broadcasting of the University of Nebraska home football games was read the second time and referred to the miscellaneous subjects committee, which has not yet been appointed. The bill to require filing of chattel mortgages on growing grain and the notification of all grain and elevator owners and managers of such encumbrances, introduced Tuesday by Senator Cloyd L. Stewart of Clay Center, also had its second reading and went to the judiciary committee, also non-existent as yet.

Committee Scramble.

Senator John S. Callan, chairman of the senate's committee on committees, started the scramble for committee appointments in that body by requesting the members to file their committee preferences with him.

Callan also announced that a meeting of the committee on committees would be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

The senate approved the appointment of Senator Green, chairman, and Senators Price and Neumann as members of the senate committee on accounts and expenditures.

After transacting this business, the senate met in joint session with the house of representatives to canvass the vote and hear the budget message of Governor Charles W. Bryan, who retires from office Thursday.

McCarter Resolution.

The resolution on former Senator McCarter's death, presented by Senators Van Kirk and Green and unanimously adopted, was as follows:

"Whereas, the Hon. Frank McCarter, president pro. tempore of the state senate of the forty-ninth session was fatally injured on the 19th of December, 1934, and passed away on the 1st day of January 1935, the opening day of the fiftieth session of the Nebraska legislature. And,

"Whereas, Senator McCarter was only fifty-three years of age, his fate seems so untimely and lamentable for he had only reached the meridian of his years and was just in middle life where the conditions are most favorable for noble and enduring achievement. As one who served with Senator McCarter but who differed with him politically, he appeared to me to be capable of broad generosity and extended to those of us who differed with him in his conclusions the same frankness and sincerity which he required of himself. Partisanship in the position which he held was unavoidable but with him it did not generate into bigotry. No man had greater inducement to live but the pallid messenger of death beckoned him to depart. His sun went down at noon but it sank amid the splendors of an eternal dawn. And

"Whereas, Senator McCarter was loved and respected for his clean character and noble life, his death is mourned by the people of the state of Nebraska.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the senate of the state of Nebraska in regular session assembled that it is with profound sorrow and regret that we learned of the death of the Hon. Frank McCarter. And

"Be it further resolved that by his death Nebraska has lost one of its most distinguished citizens, a faithful and devoted public servant, honored and beloved by the people of the State of Nebraska.

"Be it further resolved that a record be made of these proceedings and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the bereaved wife and family of the late Senator McCarter."

STORY SPIKED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had not heard about published reports that he had hinted for the resignations of Ebert K. Burlew, administrative assistant, and Louis R. Glavis, special investigator, in the public works administration.

He remarked that the story looked like one made out of whole cloth and had the earmarks of being started somewhere else and hung upon himself.

Later Secretary Ickes termed Burlew and Glavis "two of the most valuable and efficient men on my staff," adding that no suggestion for their dismissal had come from the white house.

STRIKE HALTS SHIPPING.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 2—(AP)—Brazil's merchant marine units were held at Anchor today in what participants called South America's biggest strike. Syndicated maritime workers, from commanders to deck swabbers, said the walkout would continue until their demands for higher wages were met. Some estimates were that 400,000 are on strike.

Senator Rolla C. Van Kirk (r) of Lincoln introduced S. F. 4 Wednesday, a bill which seeks to create a state police force of not more than 100 nor less than 50 men to have charge of law enforcement in Nebraska.

The police force, if the bill is adopted, not only would enforce the laws of the state, but would have full jurisdiction over boxing and wrestling matches and would handle the duties of the state fire marshal.

A board of state police, consisting of the chief of police, the attorney-general and the commissioner of public lands and buildings would have charge of the force.

The chief, who would be chairman of the board, would be appointed by the governor and would draw a salary of $4,000 per year.

MAN STRUCK BY CAR IMPROVING

Dell C. Gilmore, Hit By 'Tony' Coniglio, Has Severe Concussion.

Improvement was reported Wednesday in the condition of Dell C. Gilmore, 28, 2303 South Tenth street, who was seriously injured when struck by a car as he walked along the West O street pavement near the Salt creek bridge about midnight Tuesday. His recovery is expected.

The car which struck Gilmore was driven by A. J. "Tony" Coniglio, 26, 201 North Fiftysixth street, who told police Gilmore was walking in the middle of the pavement.

Gilmore regained consciousness Wednesday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital and the attending physician said X-ray photos revealed no skull fracture. He suffered a severe concussion of the brain, however.

Leg Fractured.

Beside the concussion, the injured man suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, cuts on his right leg, left hip, abdomen, forehead and left eye, and possible fractured skull and internal injuries, according to Dr. Louis E. Marx, who attended him.

Coniglio told police he was driving west on O street about one-half mile beyond the creek bridge and failed to see the pedestrian, who was walking east. A preceding car swerved to avoid Gilmore, Coniglio said, but he himself was unable to avoid hitting the man. Gilmore was thrown about six feet, and Coniglio stopped his car a few feet farther.

Members of the crowd which gathered identified Gilmore as having left the nearby Fred Hays inn a few minutes earlier, police said. The left headlight and fender of the Coniglio car were slightly damaged.

Said To Have Confessed Shooting Mexicans In Omaha.

OMAHA, Jan 2—(AP)—Detective Inspector Andersen Wednesday announced that Joseph G. Burns, who said his home is in Pendleton, Ore., had confessed he shot and killed two Mexicans here Monday night.

The bodies of Francisco Raiz and "Big Joe" Cirella, the men killed, were found Tuesday. Andersen said Burns told him the two men had encroached on his property and that he had gone to their shack to order them out. They refused to go, Burns said, saying they were paying rent on the shack.

Burns related, Andersen said, that he fired one shot before the two Mexicans shoved him out. He fired two shots through the door, he said, killing both Raiz and Cirella.

Mrs. Westberg, Resident Here 42 Years, Dies

FREE PROPERTY FROM TAXATION

Two Bills In House To Exempt Small Homes From Levies.

The first move to afford relief from taxation to the small property owner came from the republican minority in the lower chamber of the legislature Wednesday morning.

Rep. Eugene Perigo, Scottsbluff, introduced a bill, H. R. 8, providing for submission at the next general election of a constitutional amendment exempting from taxation property in incorporated cities or villages valued at $2,000, including dwellings thereon, or land of a like value outside incorporated villages or cities including dwelling thereon.

The bill provides that in the case of urban property exemption is given to contiguous land not exceeding two lots. Perigo said the measure would exempt from taxation the first $2,000 of property coming under provisions of the bill.

Rep. Otto Bentzen, republican, Boyd county, introduced a similar bill, H. R. 10, placing the tax exempt value at $4,000.

Speaker O'Gara appointed Rep. W. F. Haycock, Callaway, chairman of a committee to send the condolences of the house to the family of Frank McCarter, Bayard, president pro tem of the senate two years ago, who died Tuesday, and also to prepare a suitable memorial for presentation to the house. Serving with Haycock on this committee are Representatives Cushing and Perigo.

Former State Senator E. M. Neubauer of Orleans has been temporarily assigned as chief clerk of the senate billroom.

DRAFT BILLS ON PUBLIC HEALTH

Provide Means Co-ordinating City and County Units.

Two bills authorizing changes in the handling of health problems by cities and counties are to be presented to the legislature by the Lancaster county delegation. Although they permit changes in all counties, they have particular reference to a city-county health unit in Lancaster county.

The proposed bills would enable counties to establish health departments by resolution. The commissioners also could consolidate or co-ordinate county health activities with those of certain cities in the county. Optional consolidation of the health departments of two or more counties would be permitted also.

Drafting of the proposed legislation is the result of an attempt by the present city council to reach an agreement with the commissioners of Lancaster with a view to carrying on the health activities of the city and county through a public health advisory council. Opposition by members of the county board was responsible for failure of the proposal.

When the county refused to join the move, city officials set up the advisory council more than a year ago, and it has functioned since. George L. Towne, the first chairman, was re-elected about a month ago.

The proposals will be submitted to a special committee of the health council Wednesday evening. If approved by the group they will be sent to the legislature at once. The members of the special health committee are Chairman Towne, Dr. L. VanEs, Dr. E. W. Rowe, Dr. J. J. Hompes, Dr. K. S. J. Hohlen, and Dr. M. F. Arnholt, superintendent of health. E. M. Bair, commissioner in charge of the health department, and City Attorney Kier and Deputy Chapman also will attend.

Members of the city council have been given to understand that the county commissioners favor the plan.

Nebraska Sportsmen Sponsor Park Bill

Would Remove State Preserves From Jurisdiction of Game Commission.

Chet Ager of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Fish and Game association, Wednesday said that organization will sponsor a bill in the legislature to remove state parks from the jurisdiction of the state game, forestation and parks commission.

Sportsmen, he said, pay the hunting and fishing license fees and from $15,000 to $20,000 a year of this money is being spent to maintain parks of historic or sight seeing value only. He estimated that since license fees were established more than half a million dollars has been taken from hunters and fishermen and have gone for "purposes in no way connected with hunting and fishing."

"We feel that with the necessity for creating and preserving those things for which we pay our dollar that it is unfair that we should be asked to spend money on projects which should be provided for by the general fund. The money being used to maintain these parks would go a long way in creating new lakes, leasing paths along our rivers and creeks to make fishing accessible, in producing more fish and creating and maintaining a game farm or farms or in the introduction of new game birds.

"If our opportunities for hunting and fishing are not increased it is just a matter of time until our license fees will decrease to below the actual cost of maintaining what we have."

Printing Awards

Four Lincoln firms Wednesday were awarded contracts by the house of representatives for printing the house journal, session laws, etc.

The state purchasing agent was instructed to prepare contracts with the State Journal Co. for printing 2,000 copies of the session laws. Burr Printing Co., was awarded printing of the house journal, Woodruff Printing Co. the house rolls and miscellaneous work and Jay Worley letter heads.

York Woman Burned To Death In Home

Mrs. Jerry Angle Is Trapped In Her Bedroom By Flames

Firemen Attempting To Rescue Her Are Driven Back.

York, Neb., Jan. 2—(AP)—Mrs. Jerry Angle, 29, wife of a York business man, was burned to death early today when trapped by flames in her bedroom. She died before firemen were able to reach her.

Fireman J. E. Friel, who attempted to rescue her, suffered burns about the face and cuts on one hand. Friel had difficulty in escaping from the smoke filled house when the flames drove him back from the room whence the woman's screams emanated.

Origin of the fire was undetermined, but firemen believed an electric heating pad in her bed might have been responsible.

Smoke awakened Mrs. Angle's step-children, Wallace and Donna, and they rushed to a neighbor's home, to sound the alarm when they were unable to arouse her.

When the blaze was extinguished firemen found the body against a dresser a short distance from the bed. Mrs. Angle's clothing was burned from her body and the flesh was seared badly. Firemen believed she became blinded by the smoke and was unable to find her way out of the room.

Mr. Angle was not at home when the fire broke out. He arrived home while firemen were battling the flames.

TAX LIENS WILL BE FORECLOSED

Saunders County Brings Suits Against Many Delinquents.

WAHOO, Neb., Jan. 2—(AP)—County Attorney Clyde R. Worrall revealed today he plans to file an action to foreclose tax liens in Ashland as well as Valparaiso. He has filed in District court here the most extensive tax lien case ever brought by Saunders county. The suit was brought against 48 pieces of property in Valparaiso for nonpayment of taxes over a period of as high as 12 years.

The action was brought against the 48 pieces of property jointly, as permitted under the statutue, and named as defendants are 152 persons who have interests in the property.

"The action is an attempt upon the part of Saunders county to sell this property and put it back on a tax paying basis," the county attorney said.

He said school taxes are high in Valparaiso and other taxpayers are carrying an unfair proportion of the tax burden. Virtually all of the properties are small dwellings valued at between $400 and $500, Worrall said. He indicated the county might bring foreclosure suits on tax liens against property in other parts of the county, but did not mention any other towns.

Reinhart Safe in Brazil; Had Been Reported Killed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 2—(AP)—R. M. Reinhart, a North American gold prospector previously reported slain by the wild Chavante Indians, arrived safely today at Conceicao, an outpost of civilization on the Araguaya river.

With three companions, Reinhart had long been listed "among the missing" in the far interior of Brazil. The point at which he is reported, although in civilization, is still many days journey from the seacoast, for it is 466 miles south of Belem (Para) on the Atlantic.

Nothing was indicated in the fragmentary dispatch as to the fate of the other prospectors who were listed as Alder, an Englishman; Mooth, a German, and John Seidler, a Dutchman.

Seidler, previously was reported as having witnessed the flaying alive, tomahawking, and deaths of two Salesian missionary priests.

WAGGONER OUT OF M'COOK JAIL

Was Being Held for Trial As An Habitual Criminal.

M'COOK, Neb., Jan 2—(AP)—Wayne Waggoner, held in the county jail for trial on an habitual criminal charge, escaped sometime after 1 a. m. this morning.

Officials said Waggoner must have had outside help and that keys for six doors had been used to free him. No other prisoners were missing from their cells. Waggoner had been held in a special cell.

Waggoner, Norris Lytle and Stuart McDonald, were being pursued here several weeks ago when an accidental shot fired by Sheriff Fiesterman killed Grady Hahn of Oberlin, Kas., a bystander.

The fugitive was arrested here in November, pleaded guilty, and then changed his plea and demanded trial. He left farewell notes in his cell addressed to Fiesterman and Police Chief George Traphagan. The one to Fiesterman said "Ten years is too much time for one man." The other jibed at Traphagan's alleged boasts he had caught "the bad man."

Lytle and McDonald are in jail at Grant on a store robbery charge.

Injuries Are Fatal To Oakland Resident

A. C. Holmquist Dies Three Days After Falling Down Stairs at Place of Business.

OAKLAND, Neb., Jan. 2—(AP)—A. C. Holmquist, 60, secretary of the Holmquist Grain and Lumber company here, died Wednesday of injuries suffered Sunday when he fell down a flight of stairs at his place of business. The widow, four sons and a daughter survive.

Holmquist had gone to his offices Sunday presumably to fire the furnace. He was wearing a new pair of glasses and in descending the basement stairs it is believed he became confused by the new glasses, tripped and fell.

Think Blood Clot Was Cause of Death Of Frank McCarter

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Jan. 2—(AP)—Funeral services will be held at Bayard Friday for Frank McCarter, president pro tem of the 1933 session of the Nebraska senate, who died here Tuesday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident two weeks ago.

Physicians said a blod clot in an artery to the brain probably caused McCarter's death after he apparently was on the road to recovery. Mrs. McCarter, also seriously injured in the accident, is recovering.

McCarter recently was appointed director of the farm census in western Nebraska.

Think Food Eaten Caused Illness Of Six, North Platte

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan. 2—(AP)—Mrs. Frank C. Matson and five of her seven children are seriously ill in a North Platte hospital, suffering from what physicians believe is food poisoning.

The five children, ranging in age from 19 days to 12 years, became violently ill late Monday night. After summoning a physician Mrs. Matson became ill.

The father and two other daughters were not at home when the other members of the family were stricken. Matson said he and the two girls had eaten the same food as the others at the Monday evening meal, although the afflicted group had eaten oatmeal before preparing to retire.

FORMER SEWARD MAN IS KILLED

Cecil Graul Loses His Life In Plane Crash In Idaho.

PAYETTE, Idaho, Jan. 2—(AP)—A New Year's plane crash a mile north of here Tuesday night exacted the lives of two airmen, Delwin Sweet, 27, of Payette, and Cecil Graul, 35, who came here recently from Portland, Ore.

Airmen who witnessed the crash from the Payette landing field said the plane engine stalled as the pilot was making a vertical bank and that the craft crashed from an altitude of about 100 feet.

The ship was equipped with a dual control and no one could say who was piloting it when it fell.

Graul was born July 19, 1898, in Seward, Neb., where he spent his early life. Recently he had been barnstorming in eastern Oregon and western Idaho, with headquarters in Payette.

His widow, Mrs. Ida Graul, and his daughter, Enid Graul, 16, live in Payette.

Asks Court Decree That Long Missing Man Is Not Living

A petition asking a decree declaring Leo Litky deceased was filed in District court Wednesday by Mrs. Genon G. Litky of Lincoln, widow of Otto L. Litky who was Leo Litky's adopted son. Reason for Mrs. Litky's petition is that she wishes to collect the amount due on the bonus of her late husband who had named his foster father as beneficiary.

The petitioner asserts that no one has seen or heard of Leo Litky since 1907 when, at the age of 75, he left his home in Detroit, Mich. She alleges she has checked vital statistics bureaus in three states in a search for a record of his death, has employed a private detective to try and trace him from the time he left Detroit, and has even utilized the bureau of missing persons of the New York City police department—all to no avail.

This compared the procurement program for 1934, as contracts have already been awarded for bombing, attack, pursuit and observation planes.

18 PRISONERS ASK CLEMENCY

'Easy' Cases Chosen For New Pardon Board's First Session.

Following the usual custom when new members sit on their initial session, a list of 18 comparatively "easy" cases will be submitted to the state pardon board at the meeting Wednesday, January 9.

Two new members will take their places on the board; Gov.-elect Roy Cochran and Attorney General-elect William H. Wright. Governor Bryan and Attorney General Paul Good retire from office Thursday. The third board member is Secretary of State Harry R. Swanson.

Among those seeking clemency will be Robert Amos, serving a 3 to 20 year sentence begun June 11, 1932, for forging and passing a $15 check on a Lincoln automobile dealer. Amos, who gives his home as Uhrichsville, O., was here only a short time before his arrest but long enough to have left a trail of eight forged checks. When arrested he had 18 other checks in his possession, all drawn on the same company, with the manager's name signed to them.

Latenser will receive bids for construction of $50,000 civic auditorium at Wayne on January 15.

NEW CORN-HOG CONTRACT GOOD

Purbaugh Points Out Liberality In Its Provisions.

With the time for signing of the 1935 corn-hog contracts fast approaching, J. F. Purbaugh, Lancaster county agent, paused Wednesday to comment favorably on the provisions of the new agreements.

"One phase of the program appears to meet with the approval of both landlord and tenant," he said. "That is the provision allowing them to take out from ten to thirty per cent of their corn base and be paid a cash rental by the AAA with permission given to plant oats, barley or any other feed or cash crop they wish on the contracted acres.

"The cash rental will amount to an average of about $8 or $9 per acre," he continued. "Besides, getting the new program will carry the guaranteed price feature of which contract signers may take advantage."

Purbaugh said many farmers are ordering extra oats and barley seed to plant in contracted acres, thus providing them with a source of early feed for livestock to carry them through to the next corn harvest. Over 8,000 bushels of seed oats and nearly 1,000 bushels of barley seed have been ordered from the federal seed stocks commission through Purbaugh's office for spring planting.

"Another attractive feature of the new AAA contract is the provision that contract signers may purchase an unlimited number of feeder pigs from other corn-hog signers," he said. "Here, though, farmers should be cautious so that when thye buy feeder pigs before new contracts are signed they are sure the party from whom they buy will sign a contract later. A farmer having a feeder pig base and who is buying feeder pigs now should get a sales slip from the original producer."

Bruno Hauptmann

FOR Bruno Hauptmann, German carpenter, figuratively life either begins or ends with the trial which got under way Wednesday in New Jersey. He faces a charge which carries the death sentence as a climax in the kidnapping of Baby Charles Lindbergh, whose body was discovered some weeks after the youngster had been taken from his nursery.

A puzzling chap, this man Hauptmann, with a past which seems hazy and obscure, and which certainly does not provide any foundation for the developments which make him a central figure in one of the most dramatic murder cases in criminal history in America. He was a wayward youth, the information given out by investigators charges, and served time in a German prison for a relatively minor crime. He came to this country unheralded and unnoticed, apparently as a fugitive.

For the exuberant gentlemen of the press, reaching out for picturesque phraseology, the Lindbergh kidnapping appealed to them as the crime of the century. In reality, it was. Here was a young couple, the husband and father an American idol; the mother and wife, the daughter of a distinguished New Jersey political and business leader. The audacity and contempt bared in a plot to enter the Lindbergh home, to seize Baby Charles, to spirit him away, to hold him for ransom, and then, after killing a helpless infant, actually to present and to enforce demands for the payment of $50,000, are so ridiculously absurd, so fantastic as to be unbelievable. And that is what happened. If the state finally apprehended the right man, or one of the right men, then the brain which conceived that monstrous crime was a stolid, phlegmatic, and none too mentally alert German, who had only a moderate schooling, who had figured in no way previously in the scheming cunning of organized crime, who had lived quietly, almost to the point of secretiveness, with his wife.

There is no greater challenge to law by crime today than in the practice of the ancient art of abduction or kidnaping. There is nothing more repulsive and revolting. It preys upon the tenderest of human emotions, and strikes directly at the heart. While gangs ride roughshod through this country to plunder banks, and in some cases to kill, in order to carry out their purposes, that arrogant affront to law enforcement does not appeal to the sensibilities aroused by the fireside nearly so much as where diabolical plotters force their way into homes and seize members of families.

In advance of the Hauptmann trial, of the presentation of evidence, whereby the state seeks to establish that the tinkering carpenter executed the crime with which he is charged, naturally judgment should and must be suspended. If he is innocent, he occupies a most unenviable role, and it should be the hope that he through his counsel will be able to clear himself of any suspicion of participation in the crime. If the evidence demonstrates beyond a question of doubt that he is guilty as charged, then every avenue of sympathy should be closed to him. For kidnaping has grown enormously in the United States. In the face of drastic legislation, imposing more rigorous penalties, scarcely a week passes which does not bring forth a fresh instance of abduction. In twelve months, more than 2,500 cases were reported to the police, and others took place where the families were so terrorized that they remained silent. This is the fearful spectacle which has unfolded itself before a desperate nation.

Hooking the Kingfish.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT thus far has shattered no precedent in the gentle pastime of demonstrating his skill as an angler. While cruising in gulf waters, the president attempted some fishing, but with only moderate success. Now he's casting for a bigger fish.

The report from Washington that the White House is headed straight for a showdown with the Kingfish of Louisiana is one of the most cheerful bits of news that has come out of the national capital in recent weeks. It is all the more welcome because of Huey Long's activity to establish himself as dictator of his own state through broad and arbitrary legislation passed at his command at a special legislative session over which he presided as ringmaster. The Kingfish not only routed his enemies at the ballot box, but he then proceeded to place the educational institutions of Louisiana under his domination.

The specific measure upon which the president and Huey will come to grips is a law invoking a moratorium on all debts of a public character in Louisiana. Senator Long forget his commonwealth was interested in obtaining PWA funds for sixty-seven projects of definite value to the state. Now PWA money is not a grab bag, and it is not a part of federal activity which some critical gentlemen have referred to humorously as Santa Claus. That portion of it which does not come within the 30 per cent grant, in other words, the 70 per cent loan, must be repaid at the definite dates when interest and principal fall due under a plan of amortization. The public works department has notified Governor Allen of Louisiana that no payments or advances of PWA money will be made until there is a definite understanding of what shall be done about Senator Long's moratorium.

And on top of this, the president himself is represented as being firm in his attitude of determining whether Louisiana is a part of the United States or belongs exclusively to the self-styled Kingfish.

It has been a long time coming, but the American people, tired of Long, weary of his disgraceful public conduct, will rally strongly to the support of the president if the White House delivers the finishing punch to a power drunk autocrat. All it desires is that Mr. Roosevelt will not play with him for any length of time. It hopes he will begin reeling in line immediately and at the first possible opportunity, administer the gaff.

The Pardon of Shipley.

IF GOVERNOR BILL MURRAY of Oklahoma has any legitimate excuse for freeing George Dewey Shipley, to whom he issued an unconditional pardon Monday, the people of Nebraska would be interested in knowing just what it is. Shipley had been convicted of robbing an Oklahoma bank in 1924 and sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary. In 1931 Murray paroled him and he was at liberty two years, when he was returned as a parole breaker.

It was during the time he was at liberty that the First National bank at York was robbed by four men, and a bank at Coleman, Tex., was also robbed. Shipley is wanted for questioning about both of these robberies and these facts were known to Governor Murray. Three of the men in the York robbery were sentenced to the penitentiary, two of them on pleas of guilty and one after trial and conviction. Sheriff Carter of York county, who solved this robbery and got three of the perpetrators, also wanted Shipley, but now the chase will have to be taken up again, the fellow having been given a good start on the officers.

The action of the governor of Oklahoma must certainly prove shocking and discouraging to peace officers and prosecutors as well as to all others interested in the suppression of crime, which is costing the people of the country millions of dollars every year. Officers are every day risking their lives in the apprehension of criminals, while prosecutors work day and night in gathering evidence and preparing their cases, only to have some executive or pardon board nullify their work.

If there were any mitigating circumstances in the Oklahoma case they have not been made public. And in any event the governor of that state, knowing how badly Shipley was wanted in Nebraska, should in all decency have informed the officers of this state that the man was to be liberated there, so that they could have been on hand with requisition papers to meet him.

It is to be hoped that Sheriff Carter will be as successful in again locating the missing men as he was with the three sent to the Nebraska prison.

Nebraska Pays Its Bills.

THE report given out Tuesday by Richard L. Metcalfe of Omaha, Nebraska state director for the national emergency council, was most gratifying. Of federal monies advanced to individuals and to concerns within the state, a surprising amount of it already has been repaid.

Of the $46,739,781 paid out on corn loans in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, and portions of Minnesota, $46,346,039 has been repaid. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, operating in Nebraska under direction of Herbert S. Daniel, and embracing also the state of Wyoming, has advanced $41,954,225, of which $26,666,723 has been returned. The balance is secured amply. This in the main represents federal funds loaned to banks in the hands of receivers in fulfillment of the policy at Washington to unlock frozen assets.

The production credit corporation extended aid to nearly 4,000 farmers and stockmen in this and three other neighboring states, aggregating $6.038,678, and despite distressing drouth conditions, 23 per cent of it has been repaid, for the most part in advance of maturity. The regional agricultural credit corporation, covering a larger territory, has made 31.879 loans, aggregating $40,775,859. Of this amount, it has collected since its inception $17,690.272, renewed the loans on all but $9.086,958, indicating that the farm debt situation is being improved in the face of conditions exceedingly difficult.

Summarizing all of the activities, Mr. Metcalfe reveals that the five federal agencies with headquarters in Nebraska, after advancing $135.508,543, have collected $82.103.929 in actual cash, have renewed or extended loans amounting to $13.997,629, and is proceeding in orderly fashion. That is a remarkable story. It is a sufficiently impressive and final answer to the frequently expressed criticism that the government is pouring out money recklessly and thoughtlessly, that those eastern critics who have been shooting at Nebraska should take a peek in their own closets. It is doubtful if any region can show a better record for discharging its obligations promptly.

The Crimson Tide.

ALABAMA'S victory over Stanford in the Rose Bowl tournament Tuesday was a popular triumph in the east and in the middle west. There has been the feeling in those regions that the visiting squad faced a severe climatic handicap in playing at Pasadena.

Perhaps that furnishes an explanation of Alabama's amazing success in Rose Bowl competition, without detracting in the slightest from the magnificent exhibition which the Crimson Tide has staged. With Tuesday's game, Alabama has appeared in four of the tournament struggles, winning three and achieving a tie in the other. In addition, it has played two other games on the Pacific coast and never has encountered a defeat. As a measure of its remarkable feat, it should be recalled that the great Pitt elevens selected for Rose Bowl competition have gone west only to fall ingloriously by lopsided scores.

But "Bama" comes closer to registering with California in climate than most other sections, and there is no appreciable burden for the Crimson hosts from a physical standpoint on entering the great Pasadena bowl. It comes nearer to playing at home.

DIET and HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

EARLY RESEARCH WITH DIPHTHERIA ANTITOXIN

The awards of the Nobel prize in medicine constitute a very good index of the progress of medical science during the twentieth century.

Dr. Clendening

The first prize was awarded 33 years ago, in 1901, just as the century began. It was given to Emil von Behring, and never was an honor more richly deserved. He first prepared and used antitoxin against diphtheria.

The cause of diphtheria — the diphtheria bacillus — had been discovered and isolated first by an irascible old pathologist named Edwin Klebs, and afterwards by Frederick Loffler. Klebs was one of the most influential medical men of his day. It was he, more than anyone else, who persuaded pathologists that such things as germs actually caused diseases. And 50 years ago that took some persuading. But he did not organize his research well, and although he undoubtedly saw the diphtheria bacillus a year or more before Loffler, he could not prove, as Loffler did, the relationship between it and the disease.

To Loffler the strangest thing about the disease was that the germs remain only in one part of the body—on a little patch in the throat. How could they kill when there were so few of them, and they made relatively so little destruction?

It was Roux, a pupil of Pasteur's, who answered the question by showing that although they did stay in one place they formed, in their growth, a poison which spread all through the body. It was this poison—diphtheria toxin—which killed.

So a great deal of foundation work was laid down in preparation for Behring. This is no discredit to him—it is always so in science.

Behring thought that if the ill effects of diphtheria were due to a poison which circulated in the blood, there should be some antidote for that poison. After trying various things, he found that the blood serum of an animal which has recovered from diphtheria, if injected into another animal along with what would be a fatal dose of diphtheria—would effect a cure. He had an antitoxin for the diphtheria toxin.

It was on Christmas night, 1891, that he tried it on a human being for the first time—on a child desperately sick with diphtheria in the Bergmann clinic, in Brick street, Berlin. It worked. The child recovered. And soon others recovered.

Behring began to produce antitoxin in large amounts. He cabled Dr. William H. Park in New York:

"Diphtheria antitoxin is a success. Begin to produce it."

From that year, one of the most deadly of man's enemies was conquered.

OUCH!

I'm grunting more than I used to do
Time was that Janet could come Leaping
With a hopp-ti-skip plump into my lap,
And never a trip
Would I get slip
But land o' mercy, I'm telling you
My rollicking, romping days are through.

Time was I could take it with downright glee,
But I notice now that I'm grunting more
And when Janet leaps from the parlor floor
With plop and plap
Right onto my lap
It's not the same as it used to be
For she knocks the wind right out of me

I wouldn't say though I'm fifty-four
That I'm out of a storm'y old chap
Who want'en children jump onto his lap
I only know
When it happens so
And there comes the leap I'm not looking for
I seem to be grunting more and more.

PLAN TO MAKE FARMER SECURE

Iowa Congressman Would Pay Cost Of Production.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2— (AP) — The farm cost of production plan will be offered in the coming congress by Rep. Eicher, democrat, Iowa as a "permanent" agricultural program to substitute for the adjustment program now in effect.

The Iowan announced today he has prepared a bill intended to assure the farmer a price on farm products consumed in the United States, equal to the returns industry receives in its operations. He may introduce it at once or wait until he can confer on the details of the plan with Chairman Jones of the house agricultural committee.

Eicher said he is not satisfied with the attitude taken recently by Secretary Wallace, that if the majority of farmers want compulsory crop control they can have it. He feels it overlooks the general public's consumer viewpoint and the necessity of preserving foreign markets.

Assures Adequate Reserve.

The cost of production program he will sponsor, Eicher said, will assure maintenance of an adequate reserve supply of feed and foodstuffs to meet drouth needs, preserve foreign markets and prevent domestic prices being dragged down to world levels when world prices are low.

The bill would hinge its constitutionality for controlling farm prices on the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce and money.

Under Eicher's plan, the agricultural department would determine a fair domestic cost of production price each year, based on a farmer's capital investment, a fair wage for his management and labor on a bisis commensurate with like services in industry, a four per cent return, transportation costs determined on a zone basis and depreciation.

Under the plan, if the cost of production of corn was determined to be $1 a bushel and the domestic consumption sufficient to take up 80 per cent of the crop, the farmer marketing 1,000 bushels would be paid $800 for 800 bushels, the domestic share. He would be given a receipt for the world market share, based on the current world market price.

Eicher proposes to have the receipt negotiable and eligible to be used as collateral for loans, up to 90 per cent of its face value. If the markets outside this country brought better prices than the world price at the time of receipt, the farmer would obtain the additional amount.

Four Months Supply Of Meat for Nebraska Needy

Total Of 2,000,000 Pounds Is In Storage; Check Shows But Little Spoilage.

A four month's supply of frozen veal and other processed meats for distributio n to the state's needy is in storage at 14 points in Nebraska, Frank S. Henlin, NERA supervisor of commodity distribution, announced Wednesday. The amount weighs more than 2,000,000 pounds.

Processing of meat now being purchased under an extra cattle-purchase quota will add considerably to the total, he said. A check up on meat spoilage showed considerably less than the tolerance of one can in every 400 allowed under the processing program.

Commenting on the cans issued to Lincoln people, Henline said, "It just happened that Lincoln got more than its share of spoiled meat. The condition of the meat generally in the state is excellent." A double check is now being made on it in addition to the BAI and state inspection.

He also announced 13 cars of apples and 26 of potatoes have been distributed in the state without spoilage of a single case. The apples from Oregon and potatoes from Idaho were bought to relieve surpluses in those states.

The Conning Tower

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

Saturday, December 22.

BEDTIMES up, and to my office and at work there, and overjoyed to get a ballad from C. Ward, from Wilmington, so that I may be from my office on Christmas day. So for a walk through the town, and all afternoon played at pocket billiards, F. Steele and I trouncing J. Hunt and M. Duncan. So home to dinner, and thence to a welcome-home party to W. Connolly, and a farewell party to H. Broun against his having to go to Florida, all of us singing, "Miami, 'Tis of Thee."

Sunday, December 23.

EDITED some material for publication, and mighty easy work, too, albeit to hear editors talk you would think that theirs was harder work than writing. Lord! how men do talk about their work, as if each had the hardest in the world. Haply it is self-pity, or as who should say, "See; I have the hardest work in the world, yet how featly I accomplish it, with what skill, and against what obstacles!" Then do I feel abashed for having a task that is pleasant, easy, and with no obstacles that are not of my making. This day Betty tells me that she knows Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, and a fine time to tell me, forasmuch as I should have liked to know more about one whose writings have guided me much.

Monday, December 24.

TO MY office early enough, and there all day, having no time for luncheon, and at work, and thence to Dr. L. Winter's, who tells me that I am whole of my malady, and shows me that somebody had sent him a score of current magazines for his waiting-room, forasmuch as I had spoke of the old July weeklies I had so wearied of. So to the Terminal, and I was near half an hour going a mile, and thought with Eugene Field, Fool that I was, I should have walked; I had no time to waste. So to a train with too few cars, and so to my farm, and at nine o'clock to bed, the wisest and dullest thing I have done in a long time.

Tuesday, December 25.

TO THE vilage early in the morning to get the publick prints, and my heart sank to find that I had left my office yesterday with too vague instructions to the printers, so tomorrow's matter was printed today. I made a vow to be more careful in future, or less provident, for it never could have happened if I had not tried to arrange for two days instead of one. So walked about a small part of my estate, and was astonished to find that there was no motor traffick on the new road past my house, but my wife tells me that the bridge over the Aspetuck is down, against mighty improvements. So all the afternoon and in the evening at work and read some in Hans Fallada's "The World Outside," but for the first hundred pages it seemed to me over-elaborated, with as many details as Sinclair Lewis at his Man-Who-Knew-Coolidge-est.

Wednesday, December 26.

YESTERDAY to bed at nine again, and this morning all the Christmas snow was melted by reason of the great rain that had fallen in the night and still falling when I awoke at eight o'clock. So to shop for bread and soup meat, and so few persons in the village that for the first time in years I could park easily on the Main Street, and did not have to stand in line to be waited upon. So home again, and sate at my work all day, stopping now and then to rearrange some books in my rural library, and came upon a book that I had been looking for for many years, "By Heck," a book of the sport-poems by Hugh E. Keough, who is dead these twenty years and more. And I have been fond of quoting a saying of his, but misquoting it. What he said was: "The race is not always to the swift, but that is where to look."

Thursday, December 27.

ON THIS day I got up early, mighty cold, and my daughter. I having not shaved since Monday, mocked at my beard. So to the town to buy some gloves against the cold, but the best I could get cost but 25 cents. But I bought a fine scarlet cap to come over my ears, and so home again and all morning at work. So napped in the afternoon, and early to bed after supper.

Friday, December 28.

HAPPY hearted up, and by train to the city, to my office, and found there a card for New Year's, and it had our Pepy's entry for the last day of 1656, and it might well be said as 1934 ends:

F. P. A.

"Thus ends this year of public wonder and mischief to this nation, and, therefore, generally wished by all people to have an end . . . public matters in a most sad condition; seamen discontented for want of pay, and are become not to be governed . . . the city less and less likely to be built again everybody settling elsewhere, and nobody encouraged to trade . . . A vad vicious neckleent Court and all sober men there fearful of the whole Kingdom this next year, from which, good God deliver us!"

Contrasts

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2 —(INS)— One of the most striking contrasts in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann is the difference in the appearance of the defendant and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh's cheeks are ruddy and glowing. He wears a pleasant, half-smiling expression.

Hauptmann's complexion, naturally sallow, is a whitish-yellow from his months of prison confinement. He appears sullen.

The two sat only 10 feet apart today.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Bobby Is Not Happy

Surprising 'tis sometimes to find
How sudden is a change of mind.
—Bobby Coon.

Buster shuffled over to the foot of the tree and looked up

Bobby Coon was treed. There was no doubt of that. He was up in a tree, and wanted to get down, but Prickly Porky the Porcupine was in the way and Bobby had too much respect for the little spears carried in the coat and on the tail of Prickly Porky to even think of trying to pass him as close as he would have to, to get down from that tree. If only Prickly Porky would move. But Prickly Porky showed no intention of moving. The very fact that he knew that Bobby Coon wanted him to move made him all the more determined not to move. He was obstinate. Some people are that way. It isn't a nice way, but they seem to get a strange satisfaction from it.

The very fact that he couldn't get down from that tree made Bobby all the more anxious to get down. It made him impatient when he should have been patient. He told Prickly Porky just what he thought of him, and they were not things to make the latter feel in any better humor.

The moonbeams stole through the Green Forest. It was a perfect night for wandering about as Bobby Coon dearly loves to do, and there would be few more such nights, for already it was later in the year than Bobby was in the habit of being out and about. Any day now the weather was likely to turn cold, so cold that Bobby would not want to venture from his hollow tree. So he was the more anxious to make the most of this fine night.

"With all the trees there are, why did Prickly Porky have to climb this tree?" grumbled Bobby. And then he forgot to grumble. He had heard a sound. It was a very faint sound. You or I probably would not have noticed it at all, but the little people of the Green Forest are trained to notice such things. If they didn't, they wouldn't live to grow up.

"Some one is coming," thought Bobby, and cocked his head a bit to one side that he might hear better.

There it was again, a rustling of dry leaves under feet. Whose feet? That was the question. Bobby listened a minute longer, and there was no doubt whose feet were rustling those dry leaves. Bobby looked up at the old nest of Redwing the Hawk, in which he had spent the day asleep, and somewhat hurriedly began to climb back toward it. But hardly had he started when he heard a loud sniff, and out into the moonlight stepped Buster Bear. Bobby stopped climbing and clung to the tree, hoping that Buster had not seen him, and wouldn't see him.

Buster shuffled over to the foot of the tree and looked up. Then he sat up on his haunches and his head weaved from side to side as he looked straight at Bobby Coon.

"Ha!" exclaimed Buster, and Bobby shook all over.

"Aren't you out rather late in the season?" asked Buster.

Bobby could not find his tongue. He didn't like the tone of Buster's voice. Perhaps he imagined it, but it seemed to him that there was a hint of satisfaction in Buster's tone.

"This is a wholly unexpected pleasure," continued Busted. "I think this must be my lucky night."

Then Buster turned to Prickly Porky. "Hello, nuisance!" said he. "Suppose you get out on the end of that limb and let me pass."

Prickly Porky looked down at Buster, and in his usually dull eyes was a spark of anger. "I don't want to, and I won't," said he flatly.

How Bobby Coon did hope that Prickly Porky wouldn't change his mind. He hadn't been happy when he discovered Prickly Porky between him and the ground, but now he was more unhappy when he thought of what might happen if Prickly Porky didn't remain right where he was.

Boeing Ship Zips In With New Record

7 Minutes Clipped Off Cheyenne To Lincoln Flight Time.

A new record for the 427 miles from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Licoln was written in the skies Wednesday morning when pilots Jack Rose and Lloyd Schram brought the new 247D Boeing transport plane down at the Municipal airport at 10:44 o'clock—36 minutes ahead of schedule.

Flying in perfect air weather, they made the jaunt on the Cheyenne to Chicago hop with an average of 221 miles per hour, enabling them to shave off about seven minutes from the previous "best" time. The flight usually takes nearly two hours and a half—two hours and twenty-nine minutes—instead of the modest 1:53.

With Pilots Rose and Schram was Stewardess Higgins and five east-bound passengers in the new model plane which is being installed on the United Air route, according to Station Manager J. S. Anderson of Lincoln, who clocked them in on their Wednesday hop.

Fast Time Eastward.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 2—(AP)—United Air lines officials here today announced that the San Francisco to Chicago record of the line had been lowered from 11 hours to ten hours and 15 minutes today by planes of the lines. The average flying speed of the ships was 200 miles an hour. From Omaha east, the plane flew to Des Moines in 35 minutes, an average of 252 miles per hour, and from Omaha to Chicago in two hours even. Eastbound from Cheyenne, the United Air lines made 227 miles per hour, flying the 215 miles in 57 minutes.

$1,000 Raised for Prison Fund From Holiday Programs

More than 1,400 persons attended the "Opportunity Night" minstrel performance at the Nebraska state penitentiary Tuesday evening, climaxing the most successful season of holiday shows in the history of the institution—which has enriched the prisoners fund by some $1,000.

Impersonations by "Iron Jaw" Smith and performances by Paul Rolland, Zugg, Wesson and Hudson, with Scotty Lloyd at the piano and Vernon Hovey and his harmonica were the attractions on the bill.

Bill Griffith was interlocutor and was aided by several "end men" of the cast of thirty-five, including: Pete Peterson, "Mack" MacKelvie, George Spriggs, Roland Johnson and Ed Weaver. The 10-piece orchestra was directed by Bill Mosher.

A few nights ago Warden Kavanaugh gave the first old fashioned house warming and sociable that the institution has known—inviting the prison guards and officials and their families.

CLAIMS NRA HAS DONE MUCH GOOD

State Administrator Says Has Returned 30,000 To Work.

OMAHA, Jan. 2—(AP)—H. T. Williamson, state national recovery act administrator, in a statement issued today, said "In Nebraska more than 30,000 men have been given re-employment in industry and trade during 1934.

Williamson commented: "The 12 months of 1934 have proved to any fair minded person that the NRA with its code of fair competition for industry and provisions for minimum wages and maximum hours for labor, is fundamentally sound.

"Over a six months period, from June 23 to December 23, the state NRA office returned $36.242.11 in back pay to 1,971 workers. With some exception code observance is general throughout Nebraska and is popular with both labor and business.

"A survey now being made by NRA adjusters shows a surprising gratitude on the part of business men for the good results the codes have been able to effect," he said.

Dismissal Of Charge Against Martin Asked

A motion to dismiss the complaint against George Edward Martin, who was indicted for a violation of the extortion act last July 6, has been filed in Federal court by B. Frank Watson, his attorney, on the grounds that his mental condition is such that he should not be prosecuted. Martin, who was apprehended in California after his indictment in the Hastings division of the court was arraigned October 29. At that time Judge Munger ordered a mental examination which was made by Dr. Robert Underwood. Dr. Underwood reported him as suffering a mental disease which is causing a degeneration of certain brain tissues.

Money Orders Stolen

L. H. Watson, assistant postmaster, warned Lincoln business men Wednesday to be wary of any men attempting to cash money orders on the Ronald, Wash., postoffice. Blanks numbered from 57083 to 57200 were stolen from that place last May but have only recently begun to make their appearance. At one point a team and feed was purchased with the orders. They are usually passed in $100 denominations, Watson said.

SURETY BOND REFUSED HALL

to be protected as they should be. A premium proportionate to the risk will have to be paid."

The treasurer pointed out that the constitution of Nebraska requires him to furnish bond for double the amount of money coming into his hands. A statute says that the amount shall be fixed by the governor in accordance with that formula. Neither of these specific provisions has ever been complied with.

Ever since the legislature, following the Bartley defalcation of the middle '90s, passed an act requiring surety instruments to be furnished by state treasurers, the bond has been written in each biennum for the flat sum of $1,000,000, and every legislature appropriated $5,000 to pay the premium thereon. This was at the rate of one-fourth of 1 per cent a year on the total risk.

State Attorney Consulted.

When the difficulty over getting a new bond developed, Treasurer Hall consulted Attorney General Good, Governor-elect Cochran, and Attorney General-elect Wright to see what should be done about it. They have all been giving the matter some attention, but no definite recommendation has been decided upon so far by the incoming governor.

Attorney General Good believes that the constitutional proviso for a bond of double the amount of cash in the treasury is mandatory and that the legislature should conform with it by appropriating a sufficient sum to pay the premium thereon. This would mean a contract for at least $10,000,000 of indemnification to the state in case of loss, and a premium of $50,000 for the biennium, instead of $5,000.

Only Alternative.

The only other way in sight to solve the problem would be a change in the law to permit payment of a higher premium rate on the state treasurer's liability; but this would be less advantageous, from the state's viewpoint, than to carry out the constitutional requirement under the present law.

It is understood that bonding companies would take the business even at the present rate of premium if the amount of the bond were increased to the level indicated.

Treasurer Hall's present bond for $1,000,000 is due to expire Thursday and may not legally cover anything beyond that date. Hall and Attorney General Good were looking into this phase of the situation Wednesday morning to see whether the liability of the companies on the old bond may continue to run until he can qualify as his own successor.

Any Loss Takes Profit.

One reason given by representatives of bonding companies for their holding out on the state treasury risk at this time, after writing the bonds of that official on the same premium basis for 36 years or longer, is that if they were called upon to pay even a small loss it would wipe out all profit they might earn over a long period.

There is a suit pending at this time against a former state treasurer to recover about $56,000 alleged to be due on account of discrepancies in the prices paid for bonds purchased as state investments during his term. This is more than 11 times the amount of premium for a whole biennium, and it would take 22½ years to make up that amount if judgment were obtained against the sureties, not counting out any items of cost in handling the business.

Bonding concerns were required some years ago to pay a loss of several million dollars sustained by the state of Michigan in funds handled by its state treasurer. Kansas has had a similar loss of half a million dollars or so in the last two years.

Moreover, under the form of surety instruments heretofore written for the state treasurer of Nebraska, every company participating is held "jointly and severally" for the whole amount of the bond, and not merely for that part of it on which it receives the premium.

Treasurer Hall is dissatisfied not only with the inadequacy of the old bond for one million dollars and the amount appropriated to pay the premium upon it, but he also insists that some provision should be made for complete and thoroughgoing audits of his department at least once in every two years.

"The state has been getting by with one state treasurer after another who was not legally qualified to hold his office, for 36 years," Mr. Hall declared. "Now things have come to a head and something must be done to change this absurd condition.

"I am the victim of circumstances which have accumulated during all that time and have now reached their culmination. It is plainly up to the legislature to find a way of the mess."

Deputy Has Bond.

Although himself tied up by the financial impasse over his official bond, Hall says the work of his office will go along as usual and the business of the state will be taken care of. His deputy H. J. Murray has obtained a new bond for $50,000, as required by law, and filed it in the secretary of state's office, which qualifies him fully. Hall has reappointed all the members of his office force.

A letter from the Koch agency at Omaha to Treasurer Hall dated December 31 recounts the objections that have been raised by various concerns to going upon the treasurer's bond for the coming two years.

We are obliged to tell you on the final day remaining for the obtaining of your bond, says the communication, "that we are unable to interest enough surety companies doing business in Nebraska to share in the writing of the bond.

A majority of the companies, it continues, do not care to sign a state treasurer's bond anywhere because of their unsatisfactory experience here and elsewhere. Some of them are retiring from this field of business.

Agree With Hall.

The bonding concerns too, complain that they have always had to wait several months after the bond was furnished before the legislature appropriated money to pay the premium. They agree with Hall that such audits of the treasury as have been made from time to time are superficial and inadequate.

Burglary and holdup insurance to be taken out by the state on money and securities held in the treasury is suggested as additional protection for companies assuming the surety risk.

Administration Lauded.

The letter compliments Treasurer Hall on his administration of the state's finances and says the companies have full confidence in his honesty, integrity and capability. If the situation were straightened out, it states, Nebraska would be one of the first states to be recognized as a satisfactory surety risk.

A checkup of the state treasurer's office was made recently by State Accountant L. A. Ruud who found that the total cash on hand December 15 was $5,360,745, including over $1,700,000 of United States bonds held as cash.

Insufficient collateral was reported by Ruud to be held by the state treasurer as security for a $20,000 deposit in the DeLay National bank at Norfolk. The shortage of collateral in that one instance was estimated at $750.

Ruud finds some fault with the purchase of $500,000 in United States bonds by Treasurer Hall over a year ago, out of current funds without first obtaining the approval of the governor and the state auditor.

Dr. Moore Describes European Schools In Talk To Rotary Club

Dr. Clyde Moore, professor of education at Cornell university, was the guest speaker at the weekly Rotary club dinner at the Lincoln hotel Wednesday, when he told of "The European Schools at Work." He related to his experiences two years ago visiting schools in Italy, England, Germany and Scotland, mentioning especially the Stratford grammar school in England, where William Shakespeare was educated more than 300 years ago.

"In the front of each Italian schoolroom there are three things," he declared, "a crucifix, a picture of the king and one of Mussolini—and on the walls of the schools there are writings of the prominent Latin scholars of the ages—but those of Mussolini head them all."

The Germans are adopting a curriculum of economics and sociology for their "real gymnasiums" Dr. Moore said, pointing out, that the 'gymnasiums" are comparable to the American high school.

MOSCOW is enjoying its first musical comedy done by Communist Russia—It is called, "Under the Circus Top," and its sole aim, so it is stated, is "to give pleasure to the audience." The play has a cast of two hundred, and is a mixture of slapstick comedy, satire, singing, dancing and circus tricks. Moscow is also treated to its first Soviet screen musical comedy, called "Jolly Boys," the work of Grisha Alexandrov, who with Eisenstein visited Hollywood three years ago and there got his inspiration for a Russian singing and dancing production.

RICHARD HALLIBURTON so we understand is to follow Hannibal's trail through the Alps on an elephant, an adventure that will be a little more costly than some Mr. Halliburton has known. His most expensive venture in recent years, so it is said, was the navigation of the Panama canal when he was charged thirty-six cents for swimming through the Gatun lock, and he had to have an assistant on shore to shoot the alligators as they came up to sample him. He will be 35 years old January 9.

BERLIN — The Lustgarten, the square in front of the former Imperial palace, was turned into a little Christmas city during the holidays, and festivities went on under the beam of a searchlight—

Hitler, we understand, has raised the ante—and has increased the marriage loan to $250.

"Christmas trips into happiness" have been organized by the German Workers' organization for unmarried men and maids, and the trips can be made at greatly reduced prices, and special prizes are offered to those who make the most of their chances. Since December and up until tomorrow (Thursday), couples may be conveyed at bargain rates to Marburg, the Bavarian Alps of Silesia—Marburg, we hear, is offering a free eight-day honeymoon to those of its romance seekers who become engaged.

LONDON—Napoleon's unpublished letters to his wife, Marie-Louise, were to be sold at a London auction room December 17. There were 318 in all and they dealt with his courtship, marriage, and his exile to Elba. The letters were written between February 1810 and August, 1914, and the person who sold them is described as "a member of a noble house to whom they have descended by inheritance."

THE DUCHESS OF KENT and the Duchess of York both received surprise presents of paste and bead jewelry made by Countess Phalen especially for journeys where it is inconvenient to take valuable heirloom jewels. Stanford Tossers Meet Cornhuskers Tonight

Husker Quint Anxious Avenge '32 Defeat By Beating Coast Cagers

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The Stanford university cagers, homeward bound on the last stretch of a mid-west holiday invasion, paused in Lincoln Wednesday for a game with the University of Nebraska. The Cornhuskers and Indians will meet on the coliseum court tonight, the opening tip being scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Huskers Bid for Win.

Coach W. H. Browne's Cornhuskers are doubly anxious for a victory over the Indians. A win would avenge a 21-17 defeat sustained at the hands of Stanford when Coach Johnny Bunn and his Pacific Coast cagers invaded the Corn Belt region two years ago. A victory also would shove the Scarlet ahead in the pre-season record, the Cornhuskers having defeated Minnesota and North Dakota after losing to Wyoming and Iowa.

From the spectators' standpoint, tonight's mix will be unusually interesting. The two teams will play Pacific Coast conference rules during the opening half. The coast code provides the game start with the usual center tip. After each goal, instead of returning the ball to center, the officials will give the ball out of bounds to the team which has been scored upon. The out of bounds play will start under the opposing team's basket.

Holders of student tickets will be admitted to the Stanford game upon presentation of a season book. The Stanford tilt had not been scheduled when the student books were printed last summer.

Hale At a Forward.

Leland Hale, whose last minute basket decided the Minnesota game, is due to start at one forward tonight. He will replace Howard Baker, another sophomore. Probable lineups:

Nebraska	Pos.	Stanford
Hale	F	Bost
Whitaker	F	Turner
Sorensen	C	Nebs
Parsons	G	Page
Widman	G	Gorter

Officials—W. E. C. Quigley, St. Mary's and John Wolf, Kansas.

CORUM'S CHATTER

By BILL CORUM.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—(INS)—You don't suppose they named that town in California, Pasadena, after Dixie Howell, do you?

Anyhow, Dixie seems to have passed Stanford into a virtual state of coma in the annual tournament of roses game yesterday, which was no surprise in this corner, but pleasing none the less. It is pleasant to start at New York with a good guess even though you are a continent away from the scene of action.

From which distance it looks as though the hospitable gentlemen of the Pacific coast had better either stop inviting Alabama to come out there and play, or rechristen the Rose Bowl "Sweet Magnolia Saucer".

Of course, the entire Rose Bowl affair was unconstitutional and irregular this year, as I am sure the boys on the coast will hasten to point out. Alabama is only entitled to 24 votes, not 29, and California should demand a recount immediately.

The game was mixed up from the outset. Sunshine fell on Alabama and the stars—Howell, Hutson, Bryant, Francis, Lee, Smith, et al—fell on Stanford.

With "bullet Bob" Grayson again packing the white man's burden, the Palo Alto Indians once more showed the superb power that carried them through an unbeaten regular season to the P. C. championship.

But football teams of great power are sometimes inclined to be too dependent on that power. The gridiron era when it was possible to walk out there and blow the other fellow down is past. There are quite a few Graysons and Kostkas and Lunds and Berwankers and the like playing college football these days, but no popeyes.

Tiny Thornhill's large young men from Palo Alto are big, fast, potent and game. No real fan could have failed to admire the way they fought back in the second half yesterday, when it looked as though the Crimson Tide might be going to sweep them right off the ball field.

Yet with all its virtues, this particular Stanford outfit can be fixed. It can be grossly and outrageously deceived. It is not a quick study. All I know about football is what I have learned from 20 years of peering at it, and a more or less constant association with those who do know it intimately. But I am convinced that the fellow who said, "a smart team will always trouble this Stanford outfit", spoke nothing but the truth.

A YEAR ago when pretty much this same Alabama team came up to New York and lost to Fordham, 2 to 3, they said that Hubbell was pitching for the Maroon. Yesterday it was Millard Howell who was doing the pitching, and what a job!

In that first Alabama touchdown march in which the darling of Dixie whipped over 6 strikes in 7 pitches, all those listening to the game must have realized that Stanford was doomed unless something happened to Howell.

It was just about this time that the radio announcer to whom we were listening remarked that Twenty Grand, the race horse, had been scratched at Santa Anita.

"Now," sighed the gentleman who was betting on Stanford, "if they can only get that Man O' War out of the football game."

But Grayson, Hamilton, Moscrip & Co., couldn't get Dixie out. Nor could they snare those deft, feathery passes he was dropping into the waiting arms of Hutson and Bryant. Howell throws what the trade calls a "soft ball". A soft ball is several times easier to catch and hold than a hard one.

Why one man throwing a football or baseball exactly the same distance and at apparently the same speed as another man should throw a heavy difficult ball to catch, while the other tosses one that's hard to miss, nobody seems to know. But they do, as you know if you have ever played either game.

Dixie hangs them up cut there on a string, so that all the receiver needs do is pick 'em like ripe peaches from the tree.

There may have been some luck in Howell's remarkable exhibition of yesterday. There had to be some. Nobody can click off one successful pas after another when the breaks are sour.

But there was also much skill and great confidence woven into the bright pattern by the lads from Dixie. He was passing on third down with 18 and 20 yards to go, where a punt seemed the only logical play. Which is what makes the smartest sort of football generalship—doing the illogical thing logically. Or, to put it another way, making the bad play look good.

IT WAS the way Howell and Alabama struck back after Stanford's first period touchdown that convinced me I had been lucky enough to light on the winning colors. A team that can make two disastrous fumbles, both recovered by the enemy, then see the opposition march 27 yards on straightaway power in five plays, and then storm into the lead without allowing the other side even to touch the ball has an almost unstoppable confidence in itself.

While nobody ever will convince me that there was any part of a fluke in Columbia's Rose Bowl triumph of a year ago, I will say that if Stanford had stepped straightaway to a first period touchdown in that one, it probably would have carried the day.

The little Lions needed first blood to convince them that Stanford was no super football team, which it never was. But the Crimson Tide seemed to know the answer all along.

"Now come on, boys", the southerners appeared to say after that initial score, "lets us play some football."

Everything they touched from then on until the game was safely in their duffle bags turned to gold. Even the place kick which put them out in front after they had failed to tie by converting their first point after touchdown appeared to be exactly the proper stroke at the proper time.

And then when he had the Indians thoroughly harassed and jittery with his passing, Howell shook a foot at 'em instead of a good right arm and breezed 68 yards to the second touchdown. Either the Alabama calling of plays at this juncture bordered on sheer football genius, or was made to sound so by the eye witnesses.

Nine points ahead and with Stanford on the run, Thomas took Howell out to make it look as though he might be satisfied with the situation at least until the second half. Beyond question the Indians must have breathed a deep sigh of relief to see this tormentor who had been making them see crimson go. Then, while they were still congratulating themselves, the Tide struck once more with a 46-yard pass from Mickey Reilly to Hutson that signed, sealed and delivered the ball game.

As the announcer said, "it ran the score away up there."

Alas, Mr. Reilly how true.

KNOCKOUTS ADD BOXING THRILLS

Ring Sport Showing Signs of Staging Real Comeback.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(INS)—It was only a little thing, perhaps, and the setting was in the comparative obscurity of a holiday fight at Scranton, Pa., but I think the prize fight business definitely started back toward what is roughly called the light last night when a gent named Eddie (Babe) Risko, of Syracuse, knocked out Teddy Yarosz in the seventh round. Yarosz is the N. B. A. middleweight champion. I never heard of Risko before.

But then the first time I heard of Ketchel was to read that he had knocked out Joe Thomas to become middleweight champion of the world and Willie Ritchie was practically unknown when he won the lightweight title. That's what made the good old days good. There was always some young guy coming up, with a punch like a paving block.

Punch Is Necessary.

Prize fighting without the punch is like so many fingers without tips or, better still, finger tips without the fingers. But the punch is coming to prize fighting, as witness the following:

Max Baer, the heavyweight champion, engages in an exhibition with King Levinsky, who never has been knocked out before. Baer knocks him rigid and frigid in the second round. Incidentally, Baer has now knocked out four really good men in a row—the late Ernie Schaaf, Schmeling, Carnera and Levinsky.

Schmeling himself has added to the general uplift by knocking out Walter Neusel, who never had been knocked out before.

And there's Joe Louis, Detroit negro, who stopped something like ten of the first eleven men to face him and then chilled a couple of pretty good ones in Charley Massera and Lee Ramage.

Crowds Like Blood.

And finally there was the one-punch knockout of Mickey Walker in Philadelphia a few weeks ago by Paul Pirrone and last night's carnage whereby a recognized champion was knocked down three times in the first round and twice more before the end. It was an over-the-weight fight and he did not lose his title. He also managed to save his life.

If this Risko was a heavyweight, for instance, and he occupied himself for the next several months knocking out, say, Levinsky, Schmeling and Hamas, the million-dollar gate that everybody insists never will come back would come back, with Baer in the other corner. The thing just couldn't go wrong, not even with newspaper experts using the time-honored, old oaken "couple of bums" routine.

For the punch is mightier than the typewriter. It was proved that night with Firpo when, against the combined opinion of the newspaper profession, he drew 90,000 people with Dempsey. It will be proved again.

After New Worlds To Conquer.

WHAT becomes of college football stars after graduation? In the past there were always plenty of enthusiastic old grads willing to provide them with soft jobs as insurance salesmen or something, but nowadays the very wealthy alumni haven't got so many jobs to hand out; so the gridiron heroes find things a lot tougher when they have finished dying for dear old Whoozis.

Of course, many pigskin warriors try to make the grade in pro football, but college reputations mean nothing among the hard boiled pros, and each year only a few newcomers are able to stick with the big league professional teams.

Another stock ambition of the graduating football star is to become a coach, but there are only a limited number of good coaching jobs, and most colleges want experienced mentors of established reputation.

Not a few famous gridmen try their hands at other branches of pro sport after leaving college.

Millard "Dixie" Howell, great Alabama halfback, who did his stuff before California fans in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day, is a versatile all-around athlete, and is especially talented on the baseball field. Dixie hopes to make the grade as a big league ball player and will try out in the majors after graduating next June.

Two prominent pro grid stars, Ken Strong, of the Giants and Beattie Feathers, of the Bears, will also try out with big league baseball teams in the spring.

Frank Frisch, who was an all-American bacb at Fordham, and Mickey Cochrane, who played his football with Boston University, are two former gridders who reached the topmost heights of the baseball ladder.

Several football luminaries will take a fling at the boxing game shortly Geoge Theodoratos, burly Washington State tackle, who now holds the Pacific Coast intercollegiate heavyweight title as well as being one of the world's best shotputters, will enter the pro fight game after competing in the 1936 Olympics. Bob Pastor, N. Y. U. gridder and amateur champ, also intends to toss leather in the roped arena for a living.

Crimson Tide Uncorks Great Passing Attack To Humble Coast Team

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide rolled homeward today leaving in its wake the greatest chapter of 20 years of Rose tournament football history. For yesterday before a record crowd of 85,000 astonished spectators the Tide inundated a powerful Stanford eleven 29 to 13.

Dixie Howell Dazzles.

On the crest of the Tide as it surged through the classic Rose Bowl rode Millard "Dixie" Howell, as great a passing, punting, running back as ever laid hand on a pigskin in this annual New Year's intersectional series.

First he booted long, high spiraling punts. He threw passes and then he reached the heights with a sensational 67 yard run.

It was a victory of passes over power as Alabama added another page to its record of defeatless Rose Bowl play.

There wasn't a dull moment from the time Bobby Grayson crashed over in the first period after Stanford had turned on its power attack to the closing quarter when Howell fired the last of his amazingly accurate passes into the arms of Don Hutson for 46 yards and the Red regiment's final touchdown.

Stanford Scores First.

The two teams had battled along on a fairly even basis until late in the first stanza, when Joe Demyanovich, 'Bama fullback, fumbled the ball on his 27-yard line and Keith Topping recovered for the tribesmen. In two driving plays Grayson took the ball to the 12-yard line. Robert "Bones" Hamilton, on a reverse, raced around eight end to the 5. Behind massed interference Grayson pushed to the one foot line and dove over on the next play.

The Tide started surging shortly after the second period opened. Howell returned Frank Alustiza's punt 24 yards, and started sharpshooting. He threw a short pass to Hutson, another to Jim Angetich and a third to Paul Bryant who was spilled on the 5 yard mark. Then he hit left guard, scoring standing up.

A few moments later Smith put the invaders in the lead with a field goal from the Stanford 20-yard line.

Howell Runs 67 Yards.

Three plays after the Stanford kickoff Dixie found a hole over left tackle. He swept through, cut back, and outran the Indian secondary going 67 yards to score.

He was taken from the game immediately but there was no rest for the pass-dizzy Indians. Joe Riley stepped right in Howell's shoes and threw a long one to Hutson for still a third touchdown, a 54-yard play just before the half ended.

On sheer power from their 25-yard line the Tribesmen battered their way to a touchdown shortly after the third period was inaugurated, with Buck Van Dellen sweeping left end 12 yards to score.

But their energy was gone, and Howell put the finishing touches to the game with his 46-yard pass play to Hutson for the final counter in the fourth.

While the statistics somewhat belittled 'Bama's triumph they added to Howell's glory. He ran the ball 117 yards, not counting his return of punts and kickoff, averaged better than 44 yards on six punts and threw 12 passes, nine of which were completed.

TULANE RALLIES TO BEAT TEMPLE

Thirty Thousand Cheer As New Orleans Team Wins, 20 to 14.

NEW ORELEANS, Jan. 2—(AP)—The southland's Sugar Bowl game, its inaugural made sweeter by Tulane's 20 to 14 triumph over Temple yesterday, is an assured fixtura in sports.

Thirty thousand spectators, one of the largest crowds which ever witnessed a grid game in the south packed the stadium to watch a game packed with thrills.

The satisfaction over the initial clash brought ready agreement that the game be continued each year between a southern opponent and some outstanding team from another section.

Game of Thrills.

Both teams had thrill-producing stars. For Temple, he was the giant "Dynamite Dave" Smukler, who time after time tore through the Tulane line. His passing was a constant threat and his punting fell just short of Tulane's. Tulane's ace, "Littla Monk" Simons, recovering from a fractured collarbone suffered a month ago, shared honors with a remarkable end, Dick Hardy. Both teams were feted at a banquet last night after which the Temple squad entrained for the return trip to Philadelphia.

Temple Leads At Half.

Temple rolled up its 14 points in the first half before Tulane got started. Fumbles paved the way to both touchdowns.

In the first quarter, Barnet Mintz, Tulane halfback, fumbled and Stanley Gurzynski, Temple guard, recovered on Tulane's 10-yard line. Smukler ploughed through for five yards and then he threw a touchdown pass to Daniel Tasta, halfback.

In the next quarter, Temple recovered a fumble by Stanley Lojrigues, Tulane fullback, on Tulane's 20-yard line, and Smukler went over for a touchdown after several line plunges. He kicked both extra points.

Tulane Gets Under Way.

But then Tulane started on the kickoff after Temple's second touchdown John McDaniel, Tulane quarter, took the ball and, after decoying tacklers to the left, tossed it to Simons who raced 80 yards for a touchdown. Barney Mintz, halfback, kicked the extra point.

Third quarter line smashes placed the ball on the 11-yard line, where Bucky Bryan, Tulane half, passed to Hardy for a touchdown. Mintz again made the extra point.

Then, in the last quarter, Mintz, standing on Temple's 43-yard line, tossed a long pass which Horace Mowrey, half, tipped up into the arms of Hardy, who dashed for a score. Mintz' attempted placekick was blocked.

HUNT WINS JUNIOR INDOOR NET TITLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(INS)—Playing a powerful, confident game, Gilbert Hunt, top-seeded favorite from Washington, D. C., today emerged as this year's winner of the national indoor junior tennis championship tournament by virtue of his victory over Alfred Jarvis of the Hackley school, 5-7, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Another title was claimed by Hunt when he triumphed in the doubles championship with Charles Mattmann of Trinity school. The duo defeated the Northwestern university team of Donald Lawrens and Russell Ball 6-3, 6-4 2-6, 7-5.

The boys' singles title was won by Harold Dadrick, Jr., of the Choate school, second-seeded, when he defeated Arthur Nielsen, Jr., of Winnetka, Ill., 10-12, 6-0 6-0.

Missouri Curators Approve New Coach

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 2—(INS)—Don Faurot, former Missouri gridiron star, is the successor of Frank Carideo as head football coach at the University of Missouri.

Announcement of Faurot's appointment was made following a meeting of the university board of curators. He was given a one year contract.

The new Missouri coach guided Kirksville Teachers' college elevens to 20 consecutive victories in the past three seasons.

The board also abolished the office of athletic director.

A salary of $4,500 was provided for in Faurot's one year contract, which went into effect Jan. 1.

BUCKNELL WALLOPS MIAMI U. GRIDDERS

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2—(AP)—There were no excuses today from University of Miami gridmen for the 26 to 0 trampling they suffered as the thundering herd from Bucknell university marched roughshod through the Orange Bowl football game here. The crowd was 5,000.

One Miami player, bruised and worn by the fight to stave off the undeniable thrusts of the Lewisburg, Pa., eleven, expressed the team's sentiments when he said: "they outweighed and outclassed us—they simply were the better team."

The overmatched Miamians, on the defensive for the entire game, got only three first downs, one of these on a penalty.

West All-Stars Score Early to Wallop East In Thriller at Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2—(AP)—A western victory recorded for the seventh time in the 10-year history of the East-West football classic, a host of the nation's leading gridiron stars turned homeward today from the scene of their spectacular New Year's battle here.

Playing for the benefit of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children here, the two all-star squads gave some 55,000 fans a thrilling afternoon yesterday before the final gun boomed a 19 to 13 victory for the team coached by Orin "Babe" Hollingberry and Percy Locey.

Score First Two Minutes.

Taking the lead when the game was less than two minutes old the westerners amassed all their touchdowns in the first half, and then staved off a second-half rally on the part of the eastern eleven.

Jim Barber, San Francisco university tackle, provided the winners' first touchdown when he scooped up Miller Munjas' blocked kick on the third scrimmage play and ran 23 yards to the end zone.

Warburton Runs 72 Yards.

A few minutes later, Irvine "Cotton" Warburton, university of Southern California's famed little quarterback, took Munjas' punt on the west 28-yard stripe and dashed down the sidelines to the second score.

Pouring on the power, the winners pushed down the field in the second period for another score, after the west had moved to the 15-yard mark. Frank Sobero of Santa Clara faded over the right sideline and flung a 14-yard pass across field, intended for Felix Pennino, St. Mary's college end.

Pennino barely touched it, and the ball bounced into the air. Just then, Cal Clemens, U. S. C. ace halfback, moved into the picture, grabbed the loose pigskin and stepped over the goal. Ray Fuqua, southern Methodist, converted.

East Rally Falls Short.

Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr must have done a lot of talking to their eastern contingent between halves, for the players unleased an assortment of plays which scored two touchdowns in 20 minutes.

Bill Shepherd, western Maryland's high scoring halfback, smashed through left tackle midway in the third period and wound up across the goal, 39 yards away — his path strewn with would be tacklers. His run climaxed an 80-yard drive, longest sustained march of the day.

The east's passing attack finally clicked early in the fourth period when Joe Bogdanski, Colgate end, took Munjas' 12-yard pass right out of the arms of Warburton and Al Nichelini, St. Mary's back, and fell in the end zone. Izzy Weinstock of Pittsburgh, who played an important part for the East, place-kicked the extra point.

AZUCAR WINNER AT SANTA ANITA

Turf Bluebloods Trade Leading Honors In Coast Racing.

SANTA ANITA TRACK, Arcadia, Cal., Jan. 2—(INS)—Turn about seems to be fair play with the high class handicap bluebloods now performing on the western turf. This time it was Azucar, the wandering nomad of the race track, winner of the $5,000 New Year's day stakes at Santa Anita.

Bred in Ireland, raced all over Europe, converted into a jumper in England and brought to America recently by Fred Alger, Azucar just managed to win the big race at nearly 19 to 1 before 25,000 persons who wagered nearly a quarter million dollars.

No Consistent Performers.

Of the four big purse events of the fall season on the coast not a consistent standout performer has come to light.

In the San Francisco handicap at Bay Meadows it was Top Row in a world record breaking performance.

In the $25,000 Bay Meadows handicap it was Time Supply, all by himself.

In the Christmas stakes it was High Glee in a common canter.

CALIFORNIA BEARS BEATEN IN HAWAII

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 2—(INS) — An unhappy squad of Bear football players of the University of California with their coach Leonard "Stub" Allison prepared today to leave for the mainland with two post season defeats tacked to their 1934 record.

Before 20,000 fans, California bowed before a 14 to 0 defeat in a New Year's day game here yesterday with the University of Hawaii's light but amazingly alert Roaring Rainbows.

Thus, the Bears' invasion of the islands met with complete disaster. A week ago in a Christmas day battle, the Honolulu town team routed California 26 to 13.

Coach Otto P. Klum, former Oregon State star and now pilot of Hawaii's "wonder team," scouted the Bears in the Christmas day game, discovering they were weak against an aerial attack.

PENNOCK TO PILOT CHARLOTTE OUTFIT

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 2—(AP)—Herb Pennock, one of the greatest southpaw pitchers the major leagues ever knew will be general manager of the Charlotte club of the Piedmont league, a "farm" of the Boston Red Sox.

Appointment of the Pennsylvanian who pitched in five world series for the New York Yankees was made yesterday by Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox. Collins said he had not yet decided upon a playing manager for the Hornets.

Some Stock Market Leaders Register Moderate Recoveries In Late Trading

Exchange Closes Rather Irregular

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(AP)—The stock market showed some signs of life in the latter part of today's session, after milling about apathetically in the early hours, and moderate recoveries were registered by a number of the leaders. Soft spots were in evidence, however, and the close was rather irregular. Transfers approximated 850,000 shares.

While the stock market did not show any decided symptoms of a severe headache after the New Year's celebration, it came back to work on the first trading day of 1935 without marked enthusiasm.

Dullness ruled most of today's session and prices displayed no decisive trend. Here and there firm spots were in evidence, but buying momentum appeared to be lacking generally and profit taking came into various issues that have recently been leading the advance. Economic news continued bright, although Washington developments were being awaited for further stimulation.

Commodities were almost as listless as equities. Grains followed a narrow path. Cotton was slightly better. Bonds moved apathetically. Only small changes were recorded by foreign currencies in terms of the dollar.

Despite the backwardness of the list, as a whole, American Can shares edged up to a new high for the past year. Allied Chemical also got up more than a point and Case, American Telephone, Deere, Seaboard Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey and a number of others were a trifle higher.

U. S. Steel dropped a point, U. S. Smelting was off 2 and other losers of fractions to around a point included Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Standard Oil of California, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, Howe Sound, Westinghouse, Cerro de Pasco, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and North American.

Fears of labor troubles in the steel industry were said to have caused some of the unsettlement among steel stocks notwithstanding the highly optimistic interpretations placed on the current ingot production rate.

The convening of congress tomorrow and the president's initial message to that body tended to obscure, marketwise, the highly satisfactory trade and industrial reports which are appearing daily.

Many traders were understood to be withholding further commitments pending publication of the chief executive's note. The attitude of the new legislative assembly toward the plans of the white house for this session was also a matter of some mystery to the financial district and various market commentators were inclined to advise speculative caution until the outlook is a bit clearer.

The president's stand on the soldiers' bonus seemed to receive the approval of most brokerage quarters, but it was realized that sentiment in congress is undoubtedly strong for payment at this time and that administrative influence will have to be exerted to the utmost to overcome this situation. At the same time some market observers expressed the view that a bonus compromise was likely by which payment would be made to only those veterans who were unemployed and without funds.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(AP)—COTTON—Slight opening advances in cotton in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables were checked by realizing and hedging today and prices eased off a few points during the afternoon. March after selling up to 12.75 early worked off to 12.63, while July reacted from 12.87 to 12.81, but offerings were absorbed by trade buying on scale down orders. The mid-afternoon market was quiet and about steady with prices net unchanged to 9 points lower. January was relatively easy, later months holding within a point or two of Monday's closing quotations.

Futures closed steady, 5 lower to 3 higher; January, 12.55 nominal; March, 12.70@12.71; May, 12.77; July, 12.84; October, 12.67; December, 12.72.

Spot, quiet; middling, 12.85.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(AP)—SUGAR—Trading in the No. 3 contract, which provides for the delivery of all cane sugars if in the specified quotas was inaugurated on the local exchanged today. Prices opened about even with old contracts, but met increased hedge selling later and broke 5 to 7 points. March sold from 1.86 to 1.80 and July from 1.93 to 1.87.

In the old contract, after declining from 2 to 3 points under liquidation and commission house selling, prices rallied on covering and buying by Cuban interests with March selling up to $1.84 to 1.86 and July from 1.91 to 1.93, or back to or within a point of the previous close.

Trading was of pretty fair proportions but a good deal of it was in the way of straddling between the old and new contracts at a premium of 5 points on the old delivery with the market at 2 p. m. holding around the best for the old contract and about 2 points above the lowest on the No. 3.

Futures closed steady, 5 higher to 1 lower; sales, 16,950 tons; January, 1.86 bid; March, 1.86 bid; May, 1.91 bid; July, 1.93 @1.94; September, 1.97 bid; December, 2.02 bid

Grain Prices at Chicago Decline

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 2—(AP)—Material declines of grain markets today followed announcement Chairman Jones of the house agricultural committee would introduce bills to increase government regulation of commodity exchanges.

Lack of any aggressive support for grains was apparent, rather than unusual pressure to sell. Trading in September grain contracts started today at a good discount under July.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅞ to 1⅛ cents under Monday's finish, May 98⅜@½c, corn ⅞ to 1¼ cents down, May 88¾@⅞c, oats unchanged to ½ cent lower, and provisions showing 15 to 25 cents drop.

Grain prices averaged lower early today after a show of firmness at the outset. Possibility of adverse legislative developments in Washington received some attention as a bearish influence. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent higher May 99¾@⅞c, wheat afterward underwent a general sag. Corn started unchanged or ⅛ cent up, May 89¾@90c, and subsequently declined all around.

Serving more or less as a drag on the wheat market was fear expressed of threatened much larger imports of low grade feed wheat from Canada. This wheat is allowed to come into the United States under a duty of only 10 per cent ad valorem, instead of a duty of 42 cents a bushel. In addition, Canadian railroads have reduced their freight rates on wheat 35 per cent, so as to facilitate the moving of cheap wheat into this country.

A factor, however, that tended to check downturns of wheat prices was talk in some quarters that with the holidays over it is time for a more active merchandising export market. A suggested trend at home was toward increased sales of flour, and greater withdrawals of wheat from terminal stocks. The circumstance also was emphasized that abroad the usual procedure at this time of year is for wheat importers to resume their buying.

Responsive to wheat action, corn and oats today ruled easy much of the time, despite scantiness of arrivals of corn.

Provisions went lower, influenced by sharp setbacks of hog values.

About mid-session, wheat was ⅛ to ¼ cent lower compared with Monday's finish, and corn was ¼ to ⅜ cent down.

Corn receipts in Chicago today were 23 cars, a week ago 25, and a year ago 28.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(AP)—A rather hesitant trend marked the bond market in the first session of the new year.

There were strong features here and there in corporate list, but traders showed no strong desire to bid indiscriminately for secondary or prime issues in view of their sharp gains during the past week, and this arrested interest was reflected in a small volume of trading through the forenoon.

U. S. governments continued to move in the same close area of recent sessions. Treasury 3⅜s of 1940-43 outdistanced the rest by rising 6-32nds of a point to 104.19.

There were one or two gains of 2-32nds and Federal Farm Mortgage 3s and Home Loan 4s eased a little.

An advance of 1 point carried American & Foreign Power 5s to 58, and fractionally higher prices were paid for American Telephone 5s at 111¼, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s at 57¾, Consolidated Gas 5½s at 105, International Telephone 5s at 65½, National Dairy Products 5¼s at 102¼, Postal Telegraph 5s at 45½, Western Union 5s at 86 and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s at 95.

There were small declines in some loans of the Alleghany Corp., St. Paul, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania and Southern railway.

The foreign department contributed but few transactions in the early trading and quotations showed little change. Brazilian and Canadian obligations ruled a shade lower.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(AP)—Further improvement in leading utilities gave the curb market a steady tone as trading was resumed after the new year holiday. The turnover was small in most groups but there were sufficient buying orders to lift active oils and industrials to around a point with some of the specialties moving in a wider range.

The reversal in speculative sentiment concerning the utility stocks, first noted at the end of last week, brought a considerable amount of short covering in these issues, according to brokerage circles, and while prices fluctuated unevenly in initial sales, the leaders soon established a definitely higher trend. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore sold 2 points higher at 54¾ and smaller advances were made by Electric Bond & Share, American Gas and Niagara Hudson. Cities Service showed no change.

In other sections of the list gains of a point or more were made by Montgomery Ward "A," Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Sherwin Williams and United Shoe Machinery. Higher prices also were paid for American Cyanamid "B," Creole Petroleum, Gulf Oil, Hiram Walker, Swift & Co., Wright Hargreaves and Wilson Jones.

Pepperell Mfg. slipped around 4 points lower on a small turnover and Distillers Corp.-Seagrams lost a fraction.

Chicago Produce.

CHICAGO Ill., Jan. 2—(AP)—Butter was steady in tone today. Poultry and eggs also were steady.

Supply trends in the butter market have been entirely favorable. High prices have not as yet resulted in heavier production and late reports fail to encourage a belief in added outputs. Storage withdrawals have been satisfactory, with the market entering 1935 with about the lightest visible supply in many years.

CONGRESS FIGHT ON MONOPOLIES APPEARS LIKELY

Trade Commission Asks Power to Curb Trend Toward Trusts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2— (AP)—A fight on "monopoly," with Senator Borah, (republican, Idaho) in the forefront, seemed likely today to provide the 74th congress with one of its major episodes.

Borah and others marked for quick study a report of the federal trade commission, published today, which asked congress to strengthen its power to halt what it called a "steady trend toward monopoly."

This recalled the Borah contention that the national industrial recovery act tended toward monopoly to the injury of the small man.

The commission recommended amendments to the Clayton act and to the federal trade commission act. Briefly outlined, the amendments would aim at four goals:

Four Goals.

To prevent one corporation buying up stock of a competing corporation to eliminate competition.

To permit the commission to require a company to divest itself of assets so secured.

To prevent sellers offering better prices to large scale buyers, such as chain stores, than to smaller buyers, where the advantage offered is out of proportion to the difference in the mount purchased.

To give the commission authority to prohibit unfair business practices "affecting" interstate commerce. It now can ban those "in" interstate commerce.

Opposition to extending the commission's power to intrastate commerce was voiced by Senator Dickinson, (republican, Iowa.)

"I have fought persistently this trend toward monopoly," he said. "All the new legislation is permitting monopoly and encouraging it. I have not studied the commission's recommendations, but I am favorable to all of them except that giving it the right to interfere in business within the states. That is for the states."

Actor Bill Cody Is Midwife to Guest At New Year's Party

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 2—(AP)—Bill Cody, virile actor in cowboy movies, today modestly accepted congratulations as a midwife.

It came about this way. There was a New Year's party at Bill's house and just before the whistles started to blow to herald in 1935, the stork arrived for Mrs. Helen Evans, one of the guests and wife of Bill Evans, writer and radio performer.

No one seemed to know what to do except Cody. He took charge and ushered in a 9½-pound boy in the early hours in 1935.

"I'm father of two children myself," he said.

A physician, summoned immediately, arrived just as the baby was born.

Hauptmann's Chief Counsel Noted For His Spectacular Acquittals

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—(AP)— Edward Jay Reilly, chief of defense counsel, "would not take a million dollars for the privilege of defending Bruno Richard Hauptmann," but added it would be the "poorest paying" case he ever defended.

During 30 years of criminal court practice, Reilly has tried, in his own estimation, 2,000 murder cases, among them some of the most spectacular acquittals ever recorded in New York.

Some of the defense methods of the florid, 200-pound six-footer have become legened in legal circles. A former captain in the army, Reilly usually outlines his defense as the prosecution is developed in court.

He has not disclosed his line of attack in the Hauptmann trial. In fact, he has said he will not know what course to follow until the prosecution has laid its cards on the table.

"But we have combed the country for witnesses," he said, "and I know that we can trump the prosecution's every ace."

On the other side, the chief of the prosecution staff, Attorney General David T. Wilentz, has not handled many criminal cases in his career and never before was prosecutor in a capital case. But he has an abundance of confidence in the ultimate success of his mission.

Like the defense, the prosecution strategy will not be divulged until Wilentz and his aides get into action.

YOUNG JAPANESE CAUGHT TAKING U.S. NAVY PHOTOS

Claims He Was Financed By His Country; Equipment Confiscated.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 2—(AP)—A man who said he was Yoshio Matsuda, Japanese naval officer taken into custody here when he was discovered making photographs of the waterfront, left today by train. He bought a ticket to New York.

As he boarded the train, Matsuda said he would stop enroute at Washington to visit the Japanese embassy.

S. B. Hopkins, immigration officer at Tampa, said the Japanese never had been officially in the custody of his department, but had remained willingly in the company of an agent until he had been questioned to establish the legality of his entry into this country.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 2 — (AP) —Immigration officials endeavored today to clear up the identity and entry into this country of a young Japanese arrested after he was found taking photographs of the harbor in which a United States warship lay.

The man asserted he was Yoshio Matsuda, a Japanese naval reserve officer, financed in the United States by his country's naval department, but in Tokyo a spokesman for the navy declared himself puzzled over the matter. The man here could produce no passports.

The naval spokesman said there was a Lieut. Com. Yoshio Matsuda in this country on a mission to purchase naval materials, but that the Japanese officer would have passports and would not have been involved in photographing.

Shown a dispatch from New York saying a woman knew him there as a Japanese lieutenant-commander, the man declined to affirm or deny that he held such rank in Japan. He said he would do all his talking when he reached New York.

Took Photos in Several Cities.

Immigration agents would not discuss the result of their questioning, but Chief of Detectives E. E. Lipphard declared the man said he held the rank of a student commander and had taken pictures in several American cities since coming to this country about a year ago.

Lipphard quoted the man as saying he was in the pay of the Japanese navy, had sent his films to New York for printing and relay to Japan, and had purchased about a million dollars worth of machinery in this country for his government.

In the cameras confiscated were found 17 still shots and a roll of moving picture film, all exposed, officers said.

No Action Likely.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—There were strong indications today that no action would be taken against Yoshio Matsuda, Japanese naval officer questioned by immigration officials after he was discovered taking photographs of the St. Petersburg, Fla., waterfront.

Captain William D. Puleston, director of the navy department's intelligence division, said there was no naval regulation prohibiting the taking of pictures in a commercial harbor.

Secretary Swanson said he had received no report, but that "we object to them taking pictures of our ships, especially the Trenton."

'Jafsie' Regards His Testimony In Trial As 'Ordeal'

Withholds Opinion as to Whether Hauptmann Is Guilty.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Dr. John F. Condon, vouching for his readiness to testify for the state of New Jersey in its effort to convict Bruno Hauptmann of the Lindbergh kidnap-killing, said today he regards it as a "dreadful ordeal," but worth while if it results in expiation of the crime.

The 74-year-old retired school teacher, "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations withheld his opinion as to whether Hauptmann is guilty, but expressed hope that he is nearing an end to the task he set himself two years and ten months ago.

It was then that he entered the abduction case as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's intermediary, and since that time he has sought relentlessly to bring to justice the perpetrator of what he describes as "the most dastardly crime in modern history."

Sitting in his Bronx home, surrounded by members of his family, the former educator who has been a prominent, if at times mysterious, figure in the case said he approached the "ordeal" on the witness stand confident that his motives cannot be impugned.

He was silent concerning the testimony he may contribute to the state's case and made clear that not until he takes the witness stand will he say publicly whether he believes the former German machine gunner is the man to whom he gave $50,000 ransom, only to find later that he had been deceived.

BRYAN SUGGESTS $615,918 BOOST IN STATE COSTS

propriated for use in the coming two years.

Salary cuts amounting to $25,000 a year, or $50,000 for the next biennium, are applied in a number of departmental budgets where reductions in pay were provided for by the Welch act of 1933.

No state appropriation for relief, as recently suggested from Washington, is inclued in Bryan's summary of proposed expenditures.

He also omits any provision for operating or maintaining the plant at the old Genoa Indian school which the United States government abandoned and turned over to the state of Nebraska for its institutional use. He leaves the initiative on this matter entirely to the legislature. The board of control had asked $464,200 to erect or remodel buildings and install equipment suitable for converting the establishment into a home for epileptics and senile patients.

Another omitted item is $260,000 asked by the board of control to set up industries for employment of convicts at the penitentiary.

All requests for new buildings of substantial size and other major improvements at state institutions were left out of the budget by Mr. Bryan. Only necessary repairs and minor plant additions are allowed.

More For Guard.

The national guard is given $50,000 more for its support as asked by Adjutant General Paul, bringing the total for the military department back to $173,400, where it was before the last legislature cut it. The restored item is chiefly to pay guardsmen $1 a day each for time spent in the annual training camp at Ashland.

The state fair is allowed nothing for maintenance nor to pay off the remaining $50,000 of its old deficit from 1931 and 1932.

For state aid bridges in the coming biennium Bryan recommends only $7,500, instead of the customary $100,000.

Proposed salary raises for the deputy clerk and other employes in the Supreme court and state library, as well as in a few of the state offices, are not provided for.

Bryan wants $75,000 appropriated for the state sheriff's office, which is the same as in most previous bienniums, but $25,000 more than the legislature allowed two years ago.

Custodianship Proposal.

He favors transferring the custodianship of the capitol building and grounds from the land commissioner's office to the governor, with $150,000 to be appropriated for maintenance, fuel, light, power, wages, etc., the same as in this biennium. An increase of $1,000 for improvements and maintenance at the governor's mansion, raising the amount to $3,500, is favored.

The governor recommends a $40,000 appropriation to protect irrigation rights of Nebraska water users in the North Platte valley. This is $35,000 less than Attorney General Good asked. Two years ago $5,000 was appropriated for this purpose. However, the governor would allow $10,000 more to the state bureau of irrigation for its maintenance.

The governor threw out requests for a number of special appropriations in various departments, such as adult immigrant education, matching federal funds for employment service, etc. He again left out all provision for the legislative reference bureau and for special library service.

In the insurance department and two or three of the constitutional executive offices he recommends small increases for salaries and maintenance.

You cannot smoke on board the Graf Zeppelin, yet strange as it seems, the giant airship is provided with ash trays for the convenience of the passengers. Some passengers, it is explained, find satisfaction in clenching an unlighted cigar between their teeth—and flicking imaginary ashes from it into an ash tray.

Smoking is not allowed on the big ship because of the fire hazard. The bag is filled with highly inflammable hydrogen, and one spark might possibly spell disaster.

Only in the tropical regions is the sun ever directly overhead. In the north temperate region, which includes the United States and Canada as well as part of Mexico, the sun always passes a little to the south—more so in the winter than in midsummer. The reverse is true in the south temperate zone.

Representative Claiborne served a full term in the house as a representative from Tennessee before he was old enough to qualify for the office. The U. S. Constitution specifies that no man shall be a representative until he has attained the age of 25, yet Claiborne was only 22 when he began his term. Strange as it seems, his right to hold office does not appear to have ever been questioned.

Hauptmann's Wife Stays Near Court

Complains, 'No One Can Tell Me What to Do'; Visits Husband.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 2—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Hauptmann sat in a flower-papered bedroom today and winced as a clock on Main street chimed the quarter hour.

"No one can tell me what to do," she said.

Her black coat hung ready for her first trip to the little white courthouse for the trial of her carpenter-husband, charged with killing the Lindbergh baby.

A large-framed woman with brown bobbed hair, she sat stiffly in her chair, as if she were giving testimony. Downstairs a radio chanted, "Chase Your Blues Away."

"I visited my husband yesterday. He was in very good spirits," she said. "What I talked about to my husband I cannot say."

She didn't want to mention the trial, she said, "for everything has been told many, many times."

The Hauptmann's year-old child is staying with a relative in the Bronx, and Mrs. Hauptmann said she may not bring him down during the trial.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Distorted Viewpoint.

Dear Minerva: I am very much in love with a young man who has only recently been separated from his wife Plans were made for a divorce, and everything was running smoothly until the young men's parents stepped in, and, literally speaking, "threw a wrench in the machinery" They told him what a rotten cad he had been, and what a wreck he had made of their lives as well as his own They also told him never to darken their door with his presence again His mother had a nervous breakdown from the "shock" her boy had given her, so he went back to his wife (who is idolized by the young man's parents) to save his mother any more worry on his account He claims that his love is still with me, and he is miserably unhappy But he is trying, through his own unhappiness, to regain the respect his parents once had for him Do you think he is taking the right course? Don't you think that in time his parents would have forgiven him, admiring him more for standing on his own two feet, instead of having to depend upon them for his happiness as they feel now that he should? —FLORENCE

A —I think that you are too befuddled emotionally to have a rational viewpoint of this problem. I do not blame his parents for striving earnestly to forestall the threatened divorce of their son, though I do not like the personal-appeal method they have used They know so much more of the situation than you do, or than I do. They probably know that their son is inclined to be susceptible to the charms of women, sentimentally inclined and perhaps fickle, too They doubtless sincerely believe that if he will make the effort, he can regain pleasure in his home and happiness with his wife, and that the effort is well worth the making They doubtless know, oh far better than you do, that his sentimental absorption in another girl is not an uncommon state of mind, and that it will pass away, as the other attractions have faded

A man who has so little honor as to make love to one woman while married to another is not to be trusted, my dear You should be grateful that his parents did intercede If events had marched on as scheduled, you would have found yourself some day in the unfortunate role as his wife while he whispered sweet insincerities to another, probably younger, girl

Know Yourself.

Knowing your type is nine-tenths of the battle for popularity.

The girl who is normally athletic, outdoorsy, fun-loving and jolly takes a direct step toward frustration if she endeavors to be the langorous, snaky-hipped, mysterious seducer. She would succeed only in looking ill and foolish. While the house-plant breed of girl would have heartaches as well as backaches if she suddenly decided to go in for vigorous sports as a medium of adding to her list of friends and beaux.

The girl who is normally quiet and favors the calmer, cultural things of life makes a ghastly mistake if she strives to be vivacious, the life of the party and a good fellow out for adventure

"Hazel" says that she is quiet, has no parlor tricks or line of entertainment, can t sparkle at light talk and is physically lazy She mourns the scarcity of her male admirers and thinks mayhaps she should set out to cultivate a crop of pep. amusing tricks and artificial conversation of the popular wise-cracking line

However, she further reveals in her letter that she has a sweet manner, the ability to hold friends when once she has attracted them an intelligent mind, ambition and the perseverence to develop the studious interests which are hers She is "only twenty-one" and naturally she wants beaux and good times However, she had better stick to her own type. She will eventually attract men, probably older ones, who enjoy the girl who has real ideals and who will appreciate her dependability and loyalty She would be a terrible flop as a play-girl, because she would hate it, and would be striving to put up a false front which in a way reflects her true personality. She may profitably learn to express her true ideas more fluently and freely, to cultivate self-confidence which will make her unafraid to show herself in her true colors But she should never, never try to be sophisticated, flip, frivolous and peppy

Answered Briefly.

Delia: Since your husband is so annoyed by your propensity for wearing slacks and pajamas. I think you can well afford to humor him. Many men have an obsession against women in such garments Since your husband prefers to see you in crisp house-dresses or feminine negligees at home, you can surely try to please him. Marital discord is so often based upon just such trifling things and can be avoided by a little adjustment and minor sacrifice.

Joe: It isn't fair for you to tell your wife nothing of your actual income. You think it would make her nervous, because one month you bring in very little while the next month you may make a cleaning It is sure to make her much more nervous to be kept in ignorance, as she is even though you do manage to keep her supplied with a uniform household budget. She is your partner and should be treated as such

Production Credit Service Expanded

Loans on Dwellings May Be Made From $100 to $2,000 With Partial FHA Guaranty.

The Lincoln Production Credit association has expanded its service to make loans for the repair, alteration or improvement of farm dwellings, according to F W Turner, secretary, who has just received dwelling loan instructions from the Production Credit Corporation of Omaha

Such loans for the improvement of farm homes may be made in amounts between $100 and $2,000 on a single dwelling and will be eligible for guaranty by the FHA up to 20 per cent of the principal.

Farmers who own class B stock in a Production Credit association at present are eligible to borrow for dwelling improvements.

Dwelling loans will run for a year and may be extended to 18 months They are not to be confused with loans made by Production Credit associations for the general repair, alteration or improvement of any farm buildings

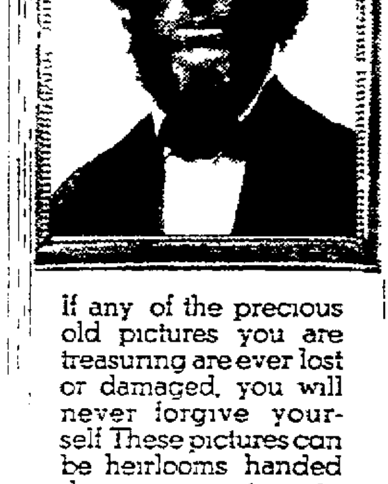

Interest on dwelling loans will be 6 per cent. With innumerable farm homes in need of repair or improvement, due to unavoidable neglect during the recent years of reduced farm income, these loans will meet an acute credit need of the farmer. said the secretary.

TERM DR. COOK IDEAL PHYSICIAN

Judge Shepherd and Dr. Weatherly Pay High Tributes.

Glowing testimony to the esteem in which Dr S E Cook was held by Lincoln's professional circles came from the lips of Dr A L Weatherly and Judge Frederick Shepherd Wednesday afternoon at last rites for the pioneer ophthalmologist at All Souls Unitarian church Dr Cook died Monday after a prolonged illness

Dr. Weatherly, pastor of the church and an old friend of Dr. Cook, called him "an ideal physician"

"I have known men as fine, perhaps," Dr Weatherly went on, "but certainly none finer Despite the energy with which he attacked his work he had time to be a scholar and a student and to pay attention to those qualities which made him the finest type of what we call a gentleman

"And with all that he still had time for the needy and the sick Never did an indigent person call upon Dr. Cook but that the call was immediately answered"

District Judge Frederick Shepherd, who had known Dr Cook since he first came to Lincoln, paid high tribute to the genius and personality of the man.

"A most unusual man was Dr Cook," Judge Shepherd said "Although intensely devoted to his profession he found time to pursue a manifold study of government, literature and philosophy He was a great lover of English literature, he was immensely fond of poetry.

"In discussion clubs he was so temperate, so tolerant, and so dispassionate in his views He was always open to new convictions, he always arrived at his conclusions without emotion or prejudice He was truly a great and unusual man"

A large crowd filled the church and many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and overflowed to the platform and the floor about the bier

Music was furnished during the service by Emmanuel Wishnow, violin, May Battey, cello; and Mrs S. J. Bell, organ.

Interment was in Wyuka cemetery.

Milk Prices Lower Here Than In West Area Pierson Says

Despite high feed prices resulting from the drouth, prices paid Lincoln area milk producer-distributors are considerably lower than in western areas, Jay T Pierson, market administrator, said here Wednesday

On a card released by the Los Angeles administrator, a base price of 67 cents a pound butter fat was quoted for Class 1 milk. The price in Lincoln is 54 cents The average pool price for all classes here was 40 58 cents during the last period, Pierson said. In Los Angeles the following prices were quoted also Class II, 56 45 cents; Class III, 50 45 cents, and Class IV, 37 25 cents

Pierson did not offer any explanation for the discrepancy but did point out that in most points in the east milk is selling at retail for 14 to 17 cents a quart. It is 10 cents here.

DIESEL ENGINES FOR BIG TRAINS

Burlington To Experiment In Hauling Of Regular Coaches.

Ed Flynn, vice president in charge of operation for the Burlington railroad, Wednesday told reporters that his road will conduct an experiment soon on the adaptability of Diesel locomotives in hauling trains of regular coaches

"We have a 3,600 horsepower engine coming from the Winston Engine Co, the people who built the Zephyr engine, and we are going to pull 22 cars on the Aristocrat from Chicago to Denver to see how it works out," Flynn said

Flynn, on his way to Denver to meet President Ralph Budd, paused in Lincoln for a brief inspection Accompanying him were J H Aydelotte, general manager from Omaha, and J Deitrich, master mechanic on the Lincoln division

While Flynn was somewhat optimistic on the business outlook for 1935, he would make no definite statement. "We have had a drop in revenue out here because of the drouth," he said, "and it is impossible to say what 1935 will bring until we get a crop. A great deal of our business comes from hauling wheat."

He said general reports indicate a good wheat crop this year and expressed some concern about the dry condition in the panhandle section of Nebraska He stated that a number of roads are interested and studying the possibilities of streamline trains similar to the Zephyr

In reply to a question, he said he could see no possibility of harnessing the output of the two power districts in Nebraska for railroad use "I don t believe they could produce enough and there would be too much loss on the line to make it profitable, anyway," he said.

Kansas Bank Robbers Escape Without Loot

GALENA, Kas, Jan 2—(AP)—Four men who planned a holdup of the Citizens bank of Galena shortly after the opening hour today fled without loot when one bandit shouted "bullet proof" to two others who entered with him

He referred to the glass which recently was put in to separate the cashier cages from the lobby Several customers were in the bank when the three men entered with drawn guns. When the warning was shouted, they withdrew, using a woman customer as a shield.
